About 1,000 Candidates Shrouds Out of Place New Arm for Baby Real Money in Russia

Current Events

HOW MANY sturdy Americans, willing to serve their country, are now planning to be President do you suppose? There was a general feeling that McAdoo had the Democratic nomination, unless "Al" Smith could get it away from him. It seemed certain that Mr. Coolidge had the the Republican nomination by an overwhelming majority on the first ballot.

But a little oil makes a great difference in the political situation, and now anybody has a right to hope.

Many an ambitious American is spending his dollars now, handing them to "political experts" in return for Presidential promises.

MANY NEW names are introduced into the interesting oil scandal and many new features.

Everything was breaking loose in Washington yesterday; reputations tumbled; new names were dragged into the light for which they are not at all grateful. Nevertheless, the gentlemen that gamble in stocks, did not take the advice of one of their leaders who told them to sell out, because our glorious industries couldn't survive if the Senate presumed to investigate them.

SOME WISE Wall Street men seem to think that a little investigating won't do any harm. All people, after all, are interested in the government, and anything that stops wholesale looting and robbing of the government must, in the long run, be good for anyone—even Wall Street speculators!

AT ANCIENT banquets, toward the end, it was customary to carry a skull around, to remind guests that all the munching teeth would soon be grinning like the teeth in the skull. What effect it had we don't know. Some probably got indigestion, others said to themselves, "If that's the case, I may as well eat and drink all I can now."

MODERNS ARE more sensitive than those ancient banqueters. In Newark, N. J., John H. Cristman, undertaker, is ordered by the court not to hang his shrouds to dry on the clothes line in his back yard. The neighbors said the shrouds gave them the shivers.

IT SEEMS impossible to make death really free from unpleasantness. Cremation, which settles everything in a few minutes, seems sensible, but it is hard for the imagination to take the plunge and realize that quick disintegration is better than slow decay. Besides, the earth may need, restored to its bosom, for fertility's sake, the bodies that have been built out of earth's products.

THE FRENCH have invented a metal arm. Fastened to the crib, it holds a milk bottle at exactly the right angle for the baby to drink. That will interest many busy American mothers. Any American could make such an arm. The trouble is that the mechanized arms couldn't put the nipple back into the baby's mouth when the baby loses it, or straighten out the nipple and set it working again when it "goes flat," because the baby chews too hard.

WHEN THE Bolshevik government started in Russia, it said it was going to make money ridiculous. It succeeded, beyond its wildest hopes.

Since then Bolshevism has dis-

OIL PROBERS CALL A. MITCHELL PALMER

PAYHEARING BARRED TO POLICE

Superintendent Crowley Issues an Order and Probes Mysterious Pamphlet

Boston policemen were forbidden to appear before the legislative committee hearing the bill providing for an increase in their pay, in an order issued today by Superintendent Michael H. Crowley. In the absence from the city of Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, the superintendent is in charge of the department.

During the past several days pamphlets were distributed among members of the police department urging that they appear before the committee. The pamphlet pointed out that a large turn-out of officers might influence the legislators favorably. Just where this pamphlet originated is unknown, but an investigation is being conducted to determine its source.

Under the previous regime the police were restrained from appearing before the State legislators in behalf of legislation affecting them under the rule which forbids all State employes from lobbying in favor of legislation affecting them.

Superintendent Crowley directed that division commanders have his order read at all rollcalls today.

ESSEX STREET BLAZE CAUSES $200 DAMAGE

Fire, caused by a cigarette stub dropped on paper patterns, resulted in $200 damage today in the cutting rooms of Goldberg Brothers, men's clothing manufacturers on the fifth floor of the six-story building at No. 45 Essex street.

Five workmen in the room where the blaze started waited for firemen to arrive before leaving. Employes in other parts of the building were ordered out. Essex street was clogged, with apparatus and spectators.

SEN. GREENE SHOWS NEW IMPROVEMENT

Washington, Feb. 28.—Senator Greene of Vermont has made another step toward recovery in the last 24 hours. His attendants, however, said he was not yet out of danger from the bullet wound he received nearly two weeks ago while passing the scene of a prohibition enforcement squad's encounter with suspected bootleggers.

Sobbing Saxaphone To Play as Jersey Jazz Girl Weds

New York, Feb. 28 (By Universal Service).—No throbbing organ notes for Katherine Joseph Bott. This Jersey City girl—a true daughter of the jazz age—who marries Robert Harry Wagner tomorrow night, has substituted Irving Berlin on the sobbing saxophone for the usual Mendelssohnian bull-and-chain sonata.

The jazz wedding of Miss Bott and Mr. Wagner takes place at a Broadway dance emporium. There will be appropriate backdrops decorated with jazzed-up cupids, and "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" will be played in syncopated time on muted trumpets.

BELASCO'S COUSIN IS SUICIDE

Girl Actress and Short Story Writer, Unable to Get Job, Ends Life

New York, Feb. 28.—Miss Vallie Belasco Martin, twenty-five years of age, an actress and short story writer, committed suicide by drinking liquid shoe polish in the Riverside Drive apartment of her mother today. She left a note in which she said her act was due to her inability to obtain a stage engagement or dispose of any of her stories.

The police said they learned from clippings found in Miss Martin's room that she was a cousin of David Belasco, veteran theatrical producer. It was through Mr. Belasco, they said, that the girl, who was a dancer and singer, obtained her first stage engagement.

Miss Martin, who came here from Seattle, Wash., in 1917, was said to have had a prominent part in "Very Good Eddie," a successful musical comedy that appeared on Broadway several years ago.

She was reported to have had difficulty in obtaining engagements since then, and complained in a letter to her mother that she was "disgusted with the way dramatic employment agencies had wasted her time."

In the note to her mother, apparently written just before she swallowed the poison on returning home at 2 o'clock this morning, Miss Martin had written:

"I thought I'd have good luck this week." This was understood to refer to her constant efforts to obtain employment through theatrical booking agencies.

Another part of the note referred to a book which the actress recently had been reading and which advanced the theory that there are more people than can be absorbed by the existing economic demands.

Police said the girl's father had committed suicide about a year ago and that there had been a previous suicide in the family.

ENGLISH SPELLING ORDERED

General Brewster Prefers Use of "U" in Labor, Honor and Favor

War clouds are gathering in the First Army Corps Area. They developed as a result of a dispute over the ethics of army spelling and the right of Major-General A. W. Brewster, corps commander, to order certain words spelled in the British rather than in the good old Yankee way.

General Brewster insists that officers and enlisted men in all army reports and communications insert "U" in words like "favour," "labour," and "honour."

Maj.-Gen. Brewster

That was the spelling vogue in this country prior to the Revolution, but it became unpopular and fell by the wayside after the Americans won their independence and finally the letter "U" was abolished entirely from such words.

Early editions of Webster spelled these words with a "U," but eventually the custom was dropped even by standard dictionaries which made mere incidental reference to the obsolete English style.

The British spelling was further walloped in the United States by the phonetic spelling campaign of which the late Theodore Roosevelt was an ardent disciple. This method even clipped words like "although" to "altho," and "through" to "thru," etc.

Which in the opinion of many officers and enlisted men, privately expressed in the First Corps Area, makes General Brewster's order all the more astonishing. The shift in army spelling in the New England army area is far from popular, because, as critics express it, it strikes them as "a step backward."

Some of the more caustic critics call it "aping the English." General Brewster's order issued by his adjutant reads:

"Memorandum for Staff:

"In his correspondence the corps area commander prefers the use of the old form of spelling of the words 'honour,' 'favour,' etc.

(Signed) "ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, "Adjutant."

"Rhymme if we won't be spelling army issue monogies soon," chirped a corporal to a top sergeant in one of the numerous barracks debates stirred by the shift in spelling.

"And dropping 'honor' 'u,' and slipping afternoon tea," replied the sergeant with a grin.

"The new officers' tunic is built on British and French lines, minus the turn-down collar," suggested the corporal.

"A lot of our aviators in the early days overseas adopted the British tunic as snappier and more comfort

GRENVILLE M'FARLAND IS DEAD

End Comes to Prominent Attorney, General Counsel for W. R. Hearst Here

Grenville S. MacFarland, prominent Boston attorney and for years editorial writer and general counsel for the Hearst interests in New England, died today at his home, No. 28 Sargent street, Newton.

Mr. MacFarland had been in failing health for some time, but his last attack was not considered serious by his family or the attending physician.

Mr. MacFarland complained last week and was confined to his home for a few days. He returned to his office at No. 1 Beacon street on Monday and remained home on Tuesday and Wednesday, but attended to his editorial and legal duties. He dictated six or seven editorials yesterday while in bed.

Mr. MacFarland went to sleep early last night and when his daughter went into his room at 5:30 today she found him dead. He had passed away in his sleep. He had improved so much the last few days that he planned to make a business trip to North Carolina to try a federal case next week and had received the doctor's permission.

Mr. MacFarland for years had been known as the leading political adviser in New England and one of the ablest in the country. He was intensely interested in various reforms for the benefit of the public. He personally directed the state case against the Edison Electric Illuminating Company which is still pending, and he also was interested in railroad rates and management.

He was recently appointed by Mayor Curley to act as counsel for the City of Boston in the situation involving before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. He was an ardent advocate of public ownership of public utilities.

Shafter Howard will appear as General Washington. In the tableau, arranged by Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster, the part of Commodore Perry will be taken by Oliver LaFarge of Harvard University, direct descendant of the famous sea fighter.

If you thought a wealthy father-in-law rudely had shattered your honeymoon bliss after only five months of married life—and

What would you do?

Mrs. Frederick Dyer knew right away what she was to do.

She filed suit for $100,000 in the chanct Dyer, wealthy Medford contractor. Middlesex County Court against Mr. and his wife, Mary, alleging they have alienated the love and affection of young Fred Dyer, former Medford High School student, and her husband.

NAMED AS M'LEAN'S HELPER

Former Attorney-General Accused as "Go-Between" in Getting Tips

Washington, Feb. 28.—A Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General in the Wilson administration, will be called before the Senate oil committee.

This was determined today, when Senator Dill said Palmer had been the "go-between" in the delivery of the McLean messages to the committee.

In telegrams read today, John Major, employe of Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, reported to McLean that he was "busy with Underwood, Curtis and Zev."

"Zev" was understood by committee to refer to J. W. Zevely, personal counsel for Harry F. Sinclair.

Curtis was Frank G. Curtis, president of three oil companies which had prior claims to leases in the Teapot Dome district. He is now dead.

Ira Bennett, editor of the Post, telegraphed McLean on January 3 that he and Major saw "Curtis," who promised to see "Lenroot."

WALSH "HARD TO GET."

"Curtis advised us," the telegram said, "to see Underwood. We saw Underwood, who promised to speak to Walsh, but he hinted that it would not do any good."

In placing the telegrams in the record, the committee members made no announcement of identification of the persons referred to.

A telegram signed "Johns," sent to McLean, said "Willis" saw party this morning."

"Willis" reported party in friend-

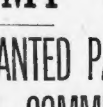
STATEMENT BY WALSH.

"Before proceeding," interrupted Senator Walsh, leading figure in the investigation, "I desire to say that Senator Underwood called a few moments ago, on the telephone and said he had read something in the newspapers this morning that he had endeavored to dissuade me from my purpose to subject Mr. McLean to examination, a conclusion drawn from some of the telegrams read yesterday.

"Senator Underwood never attempted to influence my conduct in the matter in any way. I have no recollection of Senator Underwood speaking to me on the subject, except that one morning, in the Senate chamber, he asked me if I had any objection to having inserted in the Congressional Record a letter to me by Mr. Palmer, and I said I had not.

"CAN'T REMEMBER."

"Senator Underwood in his conversation with me this morning,



Sen. Underwood

Senator Willis

was going to Palm Beach and take the testimony of Mr. McLean.

"Senator Underwood, having said that that conversation had taken place, I suppose it did, but I have no recollection of it at all."

Resuming its reading, the committee heard the text of a telegram sent by McLean from Palm Beach on Christmas day, informing Major he had a "tip" he would be called in the oil inquiry, and ordering that Palmer be asked to represent him.

On December 26 McLean instructed Major to tell Wilton J. Lambert, his attorney, that he had asked Palmer to see the oil committee.

In another message McLean instructed Major to keep "all my wires in your possession."

On December 26 McLean sent a telegram to E. W. Sterling (a secret service man at the White House, asking him to send this telegram to "Willis" at Hopkinsville, Ky.:

"Leave at once for Palm Beach. E. B. McLean."

Hopkinsville is Sterling's home town.

Later Major wired McLean that "Willis is in full possession of matters."

E. S. Rochester, confidential adviser to Attorney-General Daugherty, telegraphed McLean on January 16 that the oil committee was investigating whether McLean had $100,000 in bank at the time he claimed he gave A. B. Fall checks for that sum.

Senator Underwood further that at the request of Mr. Bennett he had said something to me about whether we were going to ask the appearance of Mr. McLean, and that I told him that it had already been arranged that I

COOLIDGE NOW ON DEFENSIVE IN CRISIS

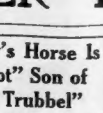
Passage of the Resolution to Probe Daugherty's Department Imperils Party

Washington, Feb. 28 (I.N.S.)—The Senate Juggernaut, with one small net victim to its credit, was in motion today to grind out authority for a "public trial" of Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty on charges of neglect of duty.

While the Attorney-General went to Chicago the Senate was stripped for action on the Wheeler resolution providing a special investigation into his conduct of the Department of Justice.

With its enactment pending, the Coolidge administration faces its second political crisis within a fortnight.

Friends and foes of Daugherty were agreed that passage of the resolution would force the administration into a defense of the Attorney - General. The charges flung at him have involved practically the whole administration, for they were aimed at his conduct of war fraud cases, the Veterans' Bureau investigation, prosecution of prohibition violations and the oil scandal among others. With a dozen bureaus interrelated, it was said the administration would be forced on the defensive and therefore to the aid of Daugherty.



Pres. Coolidge

It was made final today that the Attorney-General would not resign until after he has made a complete defense to the sensational charges. Even though his record should ultimately be approved by the Senate, serious illness in his immediate family will compel his retirement from public office.

This position of the attorney-general has apparently been approved by the President. At the series of conferences which preceded Daugherty's departure for the West, the attorney-general was reported to have won the President over to his viewpoint. The President's decision was reached after Daugherty had been vigorously defended by Senator Willis of Ohio, who succeeded the late President Hardin in the Senate.

Willis was said to have told the President bluntly that Daugherty's dismissal now would split the Republican party wide open, bring discredit upon the whole administration and send the party into the next election in a weakened condition.

Whitney's Horse Is "Teapot" Son of "Mrs. Trubbel"

New York, Feb. 28.—Teapot, a two-year-old bay filly, will race on eastern tracks this season, carrying the colors of Harry Payne Whitney, who recently appeared as a witness before the Senate oil investigating committee.

Mr. Whitney has claimed this name for the filly in papers filed with the jockey club. She was sired by Broomstick and her dam was Mrs. Trubbel.

WIFE SUES FOR $100,000 AS LOVE BALM

Mrs. Frederick Dyer Sues Her Father-in-Law for Shattering Her Romance

But troubles came upon the heels of matrimony.

In the offices of her attorney, Lewis Marks, the pretty young bride told all about it. She said:

"His father, 'Mike' Dyer, is the cause of it all, and his mother has helped to part us. The cause of it all is difference in religion. Fred's parents are Catholics, mine are Protestants.

DAILY LETTERS.

"Fred went down to Florida for his health late last Summer. His father and ex-Mayor Benjamin Haines have an extensive farm plantation at Orlando and Fred became general manager.

"We corresponded almost daily after Fred went South. Our letters were full of love for each other and we planned to marry. I knew that 'Mike' Dyer would object to the marriage. But what was that when I knew that Fred loved me.

"So I traveled down to Florida and we were married in the Presbyterian Church there on September 8, 1923. Ex-Mayor Ben Haines of Medford and his wife were our attendants.

HAPPY A FEW WEEKS.

"Fred and I started housekeeping in a pretty little bungalow on the Dixie Highway at Altamonte Springs.

"Michael Dyer came to live with us.

"Fred and I enjoyed a brief few weeks of real happiness.

"Then we decided to come North to live and I left alone to find a love nest for us two here in Boston or Medford.

"That was on January 20. Fred came to the depot. He hugged and kissed me as the train pulled out.

WENT SOUTH AGAIN.

"I haven't seen my Fred since. 'Mike' Dyer and his wife have kept him away from me. But they will pay dearly for it.

"Meanwhile, I lived with my parents at their home, No. 15 Austin road, Medford. I wrote to Fred and received no reply. I wired him (Mrs. Elma Mae, and I received the messages. But I got no answer.

"I could stand the suspense no longer, so on February 16 I took a train for Orlando. Before I boarded the train I wired Fred to meet me at the depot. Imagine my chagrin to find that no one was there to meet me. I 'phoned to ex-Mayor Haines' plantation and they came over and got me.

MUST PAY DEARLY.

"My father-in-law had left word at the ferocity that Fred was back in Medford. I wired him at his parents' home on Woodland road in Medford, asking for transportation. I was ignored.

"After my arrival on Washington's Birthday my mother and my sister went to the Dyer home seeking word of Fred. His mother came to the door and said she didn't know where he was.

"Mr. Marks, my lawyer, and the Dyer family lawyer, have had a conference in this matter since. My attorney tried to get Fred back to me without trouble. But the Dyers were firm that it was not to be.

"So they must pay dearly for the humiliation and for the wrong that has been done me," Mrs. Dyer concluded.

EX-REP. ROBERTS DIES AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Feb. 28.—Ex-Representative Ernest W. Roberts, formerly of Chelsea, died in his home in this city following a lingering illness. He represented the old Seventh Massachusetts District, which later became the Ninth District and was eighteen years in Congress, serving a large part of that time on the Committee on Naval Affairs. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Sarah Weeks Roberts, two sons, Ernest W. of Boston and John Pace Roberts of San Francisco, and a daughter, Miss Dean Roberts, of Washington.

MAKE FEBRUARY 29 BIG DAY.

Boston business men have an opportunity to beat Father Time out of twenty-four hours in February.

The twenty-ninth day is clear profit, handed down from the calendar with out a cent of charge—"the Day to Gain," as this Western Union messenger boy carries on his arm. All the messengers were supplied with those badges.

So reasons C. A. Crane, city superintendent of the Western Union. Mr. Crane suggests that business men make the twenty-ninth the biggest business day of the month, while "time" is free.

DAUGHERTY IN VETS' BUREAU PROBE

Attorney-General and Brigadier-General Sawyer at Chicago With Grand Jury

Chicago, Feb. 28.— Harry M. Daugherty, attorney-general of the United States, arrived here today ostensibly in connection with the Federal grand jury investigation of the Veterans' Bureau. He had no public statement to make and did not know that he would have. He said he was here on government business.

What he might say later, Daugherty indicated probably would be in connection with the government action in the Veterans' Bureau case, but he indicated that what the Senate Oil Committee might do, or announce, would have some bearing on what he might have to say himself.

Daugherty said he hoped to complete the government business promptly, so that he might go direct to Miami, Fla., to join his wife, who is there for her health.

The attorney-general planned first to confer with prosecutors handling the Veterans' Bureau proceedings, and then go to the Federal building, where witnesses are being examined.

Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, in charge of hospitalization work in the Veterans' Bureau under former Director Charles R. Forbes, and formerly personal physician to the late President Harding, arrived on the same train with the attorney-general. He is expected to be a witness before the grand jury.

covered that making money ridiculous is not such a good plan after all, since ridiculous money won't buy anything from outside countries.

The government issued silver coins, and is making gold coins. Real money and our kind of civilization seem to go together. Kill the money and civilization suffers. A better civilization may be found some day, but the kind we have now calls for "hard cash."

THE STREET cars of New York carry two billion five hundred and fifty-five million passengers in a year. The income in nickels from that crowd amounts to more than a hundred million dollars a year. That would seem a business big enough to justify the people going into it themselves—especially as they have to supply the cash to build subways that the "private owners" subsequently operate.

JACK DEMPSEY, champion fighter, is in the hospital recovering from a surgical operation.

The millions of Americans that's more interesting than the fact that the Belgian cabinet is out, that the new British Ambassador has arrived, and that some kind of an arrangement for German reparations has been completed—and more important than many other things.

JUDGES HAVE decided that laws forbidding immigration after the arrival of a certain "quota" do not apply to the wife or children of a man living in America.

A president of the United States may bring in his wife and children, and the authorities can't keep them out.

An effort made to overrule that decision is not creditable to the United States. A country that has wept its eyes over "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which shows a father sold into slavery away from his children, is not consistent, refusing to permit a father in America to bring his children and the children's mother to this country.

The entire immigration law, keeping out the population that the country needs, the population that would increase prosperity, and consume the country's products, is an injury to the United States.

"Which shows that we learned things while engaged on the other side of the pond," said the corporal. "The new issue barracks' caps, with its more generous crown and vizor, with the return of our bright brass buttons makes us look like 'limies.'

"I'm strong for the new cap and officers' tunic," said the sergeant, "but not for British smelling. The French and British, who are older hands at the military game, taught us some new wrinkles which we were wise to adopt, the French 75, for instance, was the star bit of artillery of the war. But why gum up our laughing by stuffling us into 'honor' and 'favor.' NIXE."

KNOCKS PATROLMAN OUT WITH ONE BLOW

While a crowd of 500 looked on, in Blue Hill avenue near Dudley street, Stanley Reed, twenty-three, a painter of No. 82 Savin street, struck Patrolman William H. Goldstan of the Dudley street police station, a blow that knocked the latter half way across the street and dropped him in a heap.

Goldstan still was prostrate, and young Reed in full view of a general invitation to the whole world to "come on," when Patrolman McDonald arrived.

Reed, full of fight, battled with the second policeman as valiantly as he had with the first, but proved to be no match for the latter. Finally subdued, he was handcuffed and left to think it over while McDonald rendered first aid to his fallen comrade and summoned a patrol wagon.

ASK EXTRADITION OF CASS FOR PIRACY

Ray Cass of Somerville, boxing manager and alleged gunman, spent the night in the East Cambridge Jail after his arrest on an extradition complaint issued by the British Vice-Consul here, acting for the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, charging him with piracy on the high seas, and intent to murder, in connection with the boarding and shooting up of the British vessel J. Scott Henderson off Gloucester last Summer.

After Albert F. Flint, attorney for the British Consul, objected to Cass being released in $5,000 bail, U. S. Commissioner Hayes held him without bail and announced he would render a decision today.

MILLION DOLLAR POLICE FORCE GUARDS TOWN

Darien, Ct., Feb. 28.—Darien today is in the possession of a "million dollar" special police force.

Four deputy sheriffs, every one of them a wealthy man and a successful "big" business man, according to C. F. Wegner, the Darien selectman who swore them in, is on duty, theoretically at least, guarding life and limb and otherwise protecting the residents of the town.

They are endowed with power to make arrests and enforce the criminal laws of the State, not only in the town of Darien, but also throughout Fairfield County. They were appointed by Sibeon Pease, the High Sheriff of Fairfield County.

Who the new officers are remains a secret. Sheriff Pease declines to reveal their identity and so does Selectman Wegner.

"We have decided that it would be better to keep that phase of the matter secret for the present at least," said both Sheriff Pease and Selectman Wegner tonight.

"We feel that the deputies can operate more successfully if they are not known."

Mr. Wegner added this:

"It isn't that we are ashamed of our appointees, for they are all big business men, men of wealth and standing, not only here but in New York."

The appointment of these special deputies followed the arrest of two members of the Darien special constabulary force, one for alleged arson and the other for alleged highway robbery, and the arrest of five other Darien men on charges of having set a series of incendiary fires. All are awaiting trial.

It is stated that Thomas McCarty, head of the McCarty Analine & Extract Company of No. 75 Fifth street, New York, is one of the special deputies. William Ziegler, sportsman and baking powder magnate, is said to be another, and the name of Cyril Crimmins, a son of John D. Crimmins, deceased New York millionaire contractor, is mentioned.

MRS. HARRIS FELT LIKE JAILED CONVICT IN BANKER'S HOME

WIFE CRIES 'LIAR' AT WITNESS

Beauty Is Enraged by Testimony Presented at Trial of Annulment Case

By ANNE DUNLAP

New York, Feb. 28. (Universal)—In 1921 the alluring Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris found herself "feeling like a convict with a ball and chain" while tied to her banker husband, Beverly D. Harris. She planned another marriage with another man of wealth and contracted to go to Reno for a divorce.

So much was testified to as the spectacular suit for annulment of marriage, pressed by the aging Harris, sped through its second day of trial before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel. Former Judge Isaac R. Deland, with his snow-white hair and his distinguished bearing, was in the witness chair.

But so confident is she of clearing her name, the pretty Mrs. Harris was not dismayed by this or any other of the day's testimony, much of it linking her unpleasantly with the underworld life of Memphis, Tenn.

At one time when a witness, D. P. McCoy, described himself as "a second cousin of Saluda Ann Harris Lee," the defendant's mother, identified Mrs. Harris as "the same girl I met in Bumpton Mills (Tenn.) about eighteen years ago," she half arose from her chair and hissed:

"You lie!"

Judge Deland described himself as a lawyer and a friend of Beverly D. Harris almost from the time the young Beverly was a messenger boy in Dallas, Texas. He told of two conferences with attorneys for Mrs. Harris, the first in August, 1919, and the second in May 1921.

As a result of the first conference in which the wife was represented by Attorney Harry Uterhart, a separation agreement was entered into by which Harris agreed to pay his wife, $1,000 a month.

AGREED TO DIVORCE.

By the terms of the second contract, negotiated by Attorneys Stanchfield and Levy for Mrs. Harris and dated May 7, 1923, the wife agreed to go to Reno at once and institute suit for divorce on the payment of $5,000 for disbursements, the $1,000 alimony to be continued until her remarriage.

Both these contracts were introduced in evidence and a letter from Judge Deland to Harris, then in Texas, reviewing the terms of the contract, contributed the following to the record:

"I am now convinced the lady intends to go to Reno to get a divorce with the purpose of remarriage."

This second contract, it was brought out, came about after a visit of Harris to Memphis, where he involuntarily came across information as to his wife's past and her relations with an Eli Rayner, described as a professional gambler.

Because of Mrs. Harris's bitter denials of these allegations and her protest that even the rumor of them would spoil her chances of remarriage, the second contract provided a clause of secrecy by agreement, Judge Deland said.

"His only desire was to be let alone, to be allowed to make a living for himself and this woman," he continued.

And again, speaking of the time Mrs. Harris was living at the Hotel Plaza after the second contract:

"—But every day he was receiving threatening letters from her."

In his cross-examination George Gordon Battle, trial counsel for Mrs. Harris, closely went into the terms of the second contract as it applied to the continuation of alimony, with a view, it appeared, of showing that Harris failed to live up to this agreement. Mrs. Harris some months ago, won an action against her husband for failure to pay this alimony.

'HALF BROTHER' IN COURT.

Beside Mrs. Harris at the counsel table sat Whitney Rayner, a son of Eli Rayner, of Memphis, and the self-styled "half-brother" of the defendant. Mrs. Harris, granting that she did live with Eli Rayner, will seek to prove that she was, in fact, his daughter, and that in an effort to shield her childish years from stigma of illegitimacy she was led to believe that her benefactor was an uncle.

MRS. HARRIS 'SMILES THROUGH' HUSBAND'S AMAZING CHARGES

This is the smile of pleasure with which Mrs. Beverly Harris heard the announcement that, win or lose, she will receive $1,000 a month from her husband.

Here is the smile of contempt which Mrs. Harris bestowed on witness McCoy, who "recognized" her readily, although he had not seen her in nineteen years.

Mrs. Harris seemed to find it difficult to restrain laughing outright, when she heard that a witness who confessed to many arrests accused her.

Testimony of courtship days in Memphis brought this smile to Mrs. Harris's face, as though the recollection of the ante-nuptial romance was refreshing.

BLOCK ROAD AND SLUG VICTIM

Auto Bandits Hold Up Salesman in Quincy and Get Away With $55

Auto bandits, using the "blocked road" method of stopping their victim, blackjacked John Peterson, a Duxbury salesman, in Quincy avenue, Quincy, and drove his machine away after robbing him of $55.

Peterson was left at the side of the road in a dazed condition. He found his car later, several hundred yards away. He was discharged from the Quincy Hospital today, where he had been under treatment for head lacerations and a broken finger.

Although the hold-up occurred Tuesday night, the Quincy police gave out no report on it.

Peterson was on his way from Duxbury to Brighton. In Quincy avenue his headlights disclosed another machine, apparently turning around. The salesman stopped his car and the highwaymen leaped at him from the darkness at the side of the road.

MOTHER OF 4 WHIPS 'TRADUCER'

Uses Horse Lash on Man She Accuses of False Stories in N. H. Town

Bennington, N. H., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Lois E. Day, thirty-nine years old, mother of four children and wife of the village grocer, has given this town of 3,500 people something to talk about for the next generation by invading a lunch room patronized almost exclusively by men and beating one of its patrons over the face and head with a horsewhip.

The man on the receiving end of the sensational affair was Charles W. Durgin. Mrs. Day is said to have acted after suffering for five days from the tongues of scandalmongers.

"Somebody," John C. Day, her husband, says, "started the story that Mrs. Day had had an 'affair.' The truth is she's the best wife and mother in the world. I wanted her to seek legal redress, but she insisted that that was not the way. Now that she has taken action I shall stand by her. I hope this fellow Durgin has been silenced. If he hasn't been, I can guarantee he will be."

NO ADVANCE AGENTS.

Mrs. Day sent out no advance agents, used no brass band, gave no intimation that she intended to move as quickly.

When she left home neighbors noticed nothing unusual in her appearance except that she wore a cloak reaching almost to the ground.

Under this cloak she held a firm grip on the horsewhip, folded in two.

Durgin was in the Delhoff lunch, telling stories. When he saw Mrs. Day, her jaws set and her eyes flaming, he turned pale.

She advanced upon him, threw back the cloak, produced the whip and struck him across the face once, twice, three times.

Durgin, an able-bodied man of forty-five, dashed frantically into the street. Mrs. Day followed after, continually belaboring him with the rawhide. Durgin managed finally to elude her. He has made no statement.

WITH FEW WORDS.

Witnesses declared that in the lunch room Mrs. Day spoke but once. That was when she came to a halt in front of the man she accused of traducing her and said, "Mr. Durgin, I have come to pay you. Here!" Then the whipping began.

Her husband did not learn of it until his wife went around to the grocery and, tossing the whip upon the counter, said:

"There! Now, I hope, Mr. Durgin will try the truth for a while."

Day says his own first step in the matter will be to consult their lawyer. Friends of Durgin intimate that he may take steps in the same direction.

IRISH-AMERICAN KILLED BY RAIDERS

Belfast, Feb. 28.—While wedding festivities were in progress in the village of Leitrim, in Connaught, two men entered the house and ordered the guests to put up their hands. James O'Brien, an Irish-American, remonstrated and was shot dead.

In Ardee, County Louth, raiders entered the home of John Smyth, shot his son dead and badly wounded the aged father, who had refused to put up their hands when ordered. In both cases the murderers escaped.

'MERELY SPORTSMEN,' SAYS MRS. DALZIEL

MRS. FREDERICK J. DALZIEL

Society leader and former dancer photographed on the much discussed hunting trip in Africa after the party had shot a huge rhinoceros. She is now accused by the wife of Sir Charles Ross, a member of the hunting party.

RIDICULES CHARGES OF LADY ROSS

Mrs. Dalziel Says Accusations About African Hunting Trip Are Absurd

New York, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Frederick J. Dalziel, New York society leader and sportswoman, indignantly denies that she used an African big game unit as a cloak to carry on a love affair with Sir Charles Lockhart Ross, baronet of Rossshire, Scotland.

Mrs. Dalziel's husband has also joined in the expression of indignation which came when Lady Patricia Ross filed divorce papers in London, naming Mrs. Dalziel as the co-respondent.

Sir Charles last year headed a hunting expedition which went into East Africa and in addition to killing off a flock of elephants, rhinos, lions, tigers, etc., discovered what is said to be the largest volcanic crater in the world.

"He thought so much of the neighborhood that he bought it all up as a game preserve.

ANGRY AT CHARGE.

Mrs. Dalziel insists that her conduct with Sir Charles on the hunting trip was only that of one sportsman to another.

"It might have happened to anyone—this accusation brought against me by wife of Sir Charles," she declared and her eyes snapped.

Discussing Lady Ross, who was formerly Patricia Ellison of Louisville, Ky., she could not conceal the agitation and anger which the divorce suit has aroused in her.

Mrs. Dalziel, daughter of the late George Hoffman of Baltimore, and niece of Miss Anna Key Thompson, has played a vital part in society from the days before her marriage to Frederick T. Dalziel of London, when she was sought by theatrical managers to dance professionally after her spectacular success in parties given by the Goulds and by Mrs. Cooper Hewitt.

AFRICAN ADVENTURES.

Charged and straightforward, Mrs. Dalziel spoke of the African hunting expedition which figures in Lady Patricia's accusations:

"Sir Charles and I have a perfect case to refute these unwarranted accusations that arose in his wife's mind while we were in Africa absorbed in the excitement of hunting lions, elephants and rhinoceri. It will not be hard to find our old native servants and get their testimony.

"Lady Patricia has evolved a very interesting fiction in her mind—far from the scenes where she imagines it to have taken place."

UNPLEASANT JUST NOW.

There is nothing of the panicky woman afraid of her ground in Mrs. Dalziel's attitude; on the other hand there is no bravado in her manner. She explains:

"Of course, it is unpleasant that this should come on the eve of my daughter's wedding."

Miss Diana Dalziel, the elder daughter of Mr. Dalziel, it is announced, is to marry T. Reid Vreeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Vreeland of No. 135 Central Park West, Saturday.

TELLS LASELL GIRLS TO 'CHUCK' LIPSTICKS

"Girls, chuck your powder puffs, lipsticks and rouge jars into the chafing dishes and send the chafing dishes home," is the advice of Miss Lillie R. Potter, twenty-two years preceptress of Lasell Seminary.

In "A Sermon to Saints" before members of the Girls' City Club at the Newbury street clubhouse, Miss Potter told the girls they would acquire greater feminine charm by taking "pleasant walks" than by the most artful application of facial camouflage.

THINGS ARE 'SWELL' AT WELLESLEY

Professor Gets the Mumps and Suddenly Loses Popularity With College Girls

They're having a "swell" time at Wellesley College.

This includes Prof. Redvers Opie—in one respect. In another respect Redvers Opie isn't having a swell time at all.

The professor is in a position at Wellesley that would make any man envious. He is the youngest "prof." in college, but that isn't what gives rise to the envy. It's the attitude of the girls toward him.

When Professor Opie arrived at Wellesley from Newcastle, Eng., the girls fluffed their bobs and shingles. Opie, in "flapper" vernacular, was the "canary's eyebrows." After some thought, however, the girls decided on "awfully cute."

But now Professor Opie has the mumps and while that is "swell," in another way it isn't as "swell." The girls won't go near him now. In short, they are saving their faces.

But the professor is not the only member of the department of economics that is all puffed up.

Miss Jane Newell, head of the department has grown much stouter in the face because of this malady. A fitting victim of these mean mumps is Miss Elizabeth Donnan, also of economics.

This ends the casualty list, and although physicians are unable to discover any connection between economics and mumps, the fact remains that they are confined to this one division.

TITIAN COSTING $150 NOW BRINGS $100,000

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—An authentic Titian, owned for thirty-three years by an artist who never suspected its worth, has been purchased by Linwood M. Andrews, Los Angeles art collector, for $100,000, the Los Angeles Times states today.

Adolph Bruiser of Santa Barbara bought it for $150 at an auction in Florence, Italy, while he was studying art there.

Experts have pronounced it genuine and identified it as "The Madonna, Holy Child and Titian's Daughter Lavinia," long believed to have been lost with other works of art in a fireswept Madrid.

FREE DOCTOR TRIED FOR GIRL'S DEATH

New Bedford, Feb. 28.—A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury in the case of Dr. William N. Williamson, 68, of Norton, who was on trial charged with illegal surgery resulting in the death of Flora Murial Fox, seventeen-year-old North Troy, Vt., girl.

The jury deliberated less than six hours and returned its verdict of acquittal shortly after midnight.

MAN DIES IN TURKISH BATH

Edwin Lawrence Glennon, thirty-four years old, of No. 42 Pleasant street, Swampscott, was taken ill while in the Turkish bath at No. 176 Tremont street and was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Haymarket Relief Station.

The body was removed to Northern Mortuary where Medical Examiner Brickley will perform an autopsy. Police believe Glennon's death was due to natural causes.

BAKERY NAG IN FIRST IN RACE WITH TRAIN

"Dolly" Shows a Flash of Speed in Malden That Would Make Zev Jealous

Some philosopher of the turf once remarked that "there's many a Lou Dillon pulling a plow." That was when Lou Dillon was in her prime and smashing world's speed records.

Brought up to date this bit of philosophy should be "There's many a Man o'War pulling a bakery wagon."

Dolly proved it.

Dolly is an ordinary horse with praises unheralded and unsung and whose drab lot in life is to haul about a wagon for the firm of Friend Brothers, Malden.

But Dolly showed the world what she could do when she took the bit in her teeth, got rid of her cumbersome wagon and beat the 3.15 train on the Boston & Maine to Broadway crossing, Malden, by several lengths after racing the train from Linden.

Dolly's driver, Frank McCoy, was busy delivering pies and cake on Oliva street when the thing started. Maybe it was some long cherished ambition to prove that she wor born for Tia Juana or Saratoga that suddenly came into her, but at any rate Dolly suddenly dashed down Oliva street and into Belvale and thence to the tracks.

A stream of pastry and finally the wagon was left in her wake as she reached the tracks neck and neck with the 3.15.

The gong was rough, along those icy tiles, but it was Dolly Chance. She settled into a pace that would have saddened the heat of a cat or a Sande. The engineer put on more steam. So did Dolly.

Neck and neck the horse and the train raced, until, finally, giving by four ounces, Dolly flashed under the wire at Broadway Crossing, a gallant winner by two lengths.

Her race run and won, Dolly dutifully permitted Patrolman Nolan to tie her to a telegraph pole until her driver arrived.

Medium Gives Off Light Flashes of Weird Blue

Paris, Feb. 28.—Interesting tests of a medium claimed to possess a mysterious luminosity—the emission of blue light rays—are announced by Dr. Gustave Geley of the Metaphysical Institute. The medium is an Italian named Erto of Castellammare di Estadia.

Dr. Geley claims that Erto, when placed in a dark room, is surrounded by a bluish aura, a fan-shaped ray is projected from the left side, and occasionally light appears above the head.

Dance by Bremer Girls to Be Feature of "Oh Boy", Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

AT the rehearsal the other evening of "Oh Boy," which society is staging at the Tremont Theatre next week, there sat among the watchers Mrs. S. Parker Bremer of Marlboro street.

And in the entire assemblage there was no one more keenly interested in the proceedings than this stately matron.

First of all, because Mrs. Bremer has given unremittingly of her time and efforts to the Massachusetts Association for Occupational Therapy which, with the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange, will share the proceeds derived from the three performances of "Oh Boy." As chairman of the committee in charge of the staging of "Oh Boy," she has worked harder than ever.

But Mrs. Bremer would naturally be interested in the show anyway, for her two younger daughters, the Misses May and Ruth Bremer, give a perfectly corking imitation of the Duncun sisters in it. Their little act has nothing to do with the rest of the play, but that doesn't in the least deflact from its charm.

There was considerable applause from the cast when they finished, and they are certain to be a "surefire" hit on Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Ruth Bremer, who is one of the most attractive buds of the season, is also taking part in the chorus.

FLUFFY-HAIRED Mrs. Morgan Butler in "Jackie Samson," who causes all sorts of trouble, cardiac and otherwise, especially—of the cardiac kind—for "Jimmie Marvin," played by Joseph Sargent, Jr., the dashing "Captain Etienne" of the Junior League play a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Morgan Butler (Photo by Marceau)

Of the "otherwise" kind of trouble she causes considerable for "George Budd" (Geoffrey B. Sayer), who really loves Miss "Llewelyn Carter" (Miss Flora MacDonald).

Nimble-footed Joseph Seabury is very funny as the "Gosh-darn" Constable Sims, while Mrs. William Wheelwright portrays quite delightfully "Aunt Penelope Budd," the Quaker lady who happens upon some most remarkable "lemonade."

Doland Chandler is "Judge Carter," who is sometimes more informally known as "Toodles," much to the consternation of "Mrs. Carter," played by Miss Elsie Winsor Bird.

THE fair "chorines" are led by popular Miss "Rose" Adie and Miss Grace Sargent, and of course, add much to the show.

Of the chorus girls whom I saw at the rehearsal on Tuesday evening were Mrs. Richard Saltonstall, the Misses Anna and Eleanora Winslow, Mrs. David Sears 2nd (Nell Whitel, the Misses Ruth Bremer, Elizabeth Percival, Mabel Holden, Eleanor Batchelder and Elinor Condit. Also in the group was Mrs. Morehead Patterson, who was Miss Elsie Parsons of New York.

MOTHER'S PLEA IS HEEDED BY HEIRESS

Marion Pierce Visits Brookline Home and Says She May Return to Stay

Heeding the plea of her grieving and prostrated foster mother, Miss Marion Pierce, Brookline heiress, returned to Brookline from her refuge in Salem, and after half an hour at the bedside of the woman who had reared her as her own, left.

One sentiment as to the desirability of the girl's return to her former home was expressed in the words of the woman in constant attendance upon Mrs. Pierce.

Marion Pierce

"Don't come back," were the parting words of advice given by this woman, who refused to reveal her identity.

As the girl was about to depart from the Pierce home, No. 48 Park street, Brookline, she encountered Mabel Watts, the colored maid, whom she accused of having been responsible for her flight, and a verbal battle ensued.

The woman attendant, declaring she had authority to speak for Mrs. Pierce, who, on account of her illness, was unable to see reporters, denied that the maid had come between the girl and Mrs. Pierce or that she held any undue influence over her mistress, as the girl had charged.

Mrs. Pierce, the woman said, is ready and willing to allow the girl to live her own life.

"All I want from Marion is her love and confidence," Mrs. Pierce stated through her woman attendant. "She is old enough to live her own life and do as she pleases, but I do not want to lose her love."

LYNN BOY HAS DESIRE TO BE PRESIDENT

Willing to Study 24 Years if He Can Land Job

Charles Castaldo, eleven-year-old Lynn school boy, of No. 83 Wheeler street, that city intends to be President of the United States, and he doesn't make any bones about it.

After ransacking the Lynn Public Library for information that would show him how to become president, Charles startled Miss Gertrude Schewenger, in charge of the children's department, with the question: "Have you any books that will teach me what a man has to know to become President of the United States?"

24 YEARS TO STUDY.

Unfortunately the books in the library are not catalogued that way. Miss Schewenger knit her brows and looked sharply at the ambitious youngster.

"Why do you ask that question?"

"Well, I've been reading about George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson, and I've decided that I would like the job."

"How long do you intend to study for the office?"

"A man has to be thirty-five before he can be elected. I have twenty-four years to study."

There do not seem to be any rules for rising from an eleven-year-old schoolboy to the chair of President, but with the help of Charles' parents, who are well read, Miss Schewenger is going to map out an extensive field of study in such simple courses as Political Science, Government and Sociology.

Charles believes he will first become a lawyer, since all of the "big Presidents" except Washington started as students of the law.

Charles is an American-born Italian. Mr. and Mrs. Castaldo were born in Naples, Italy. He is in the sixth grade and leads his classes.

WAR VETERAN JILTED ON EVE OF MARRIAGE

Dorchester Girl Is Secret Bride in New York; Sends Ring Back

Jack's "only girl," was Miss Margaret E. McGarrahan, of No. 81 Templeton street, Dorchester. The wedding was to be held next Monday, at St. Mark's church, Dorchester, and all his friends were waiting for the event.

But the event will never take place for, according to Miss Margarrahan, she is now Mrs. Charles Peloubet of Cambridge, after a whirlwind courtship.

Here's the story as Jack tells it: "I left Margaret at Summer street station to do some shopping before the marriage took place. That night I went over to her mother's house to see her. I had been there but a few moments when a telegram came saying, "I am in New York for a few days. Letter will follow in the morning." Peggy's name was signed to it.

"The letter did come the next morning and with it the news that she had been married. I had never met Peloubet and did not know what to think.

"We had been engaged for the last two years and were to be married this Monday. I had bought her everything she wanted, even the swellest hope chest possible. Now the marriage intentions will be thrown away and I am through with women.

PRESENT 'DEAR JOSIE' NOTES IN DIVORCE CASE

Cambridge Man Accuses Wife of Receiving Gifts From Other Men

"Dear Josie" letters, written to Mrs. Josephine White, of Cambridge, by male admirers, were introduced in her husband's suit for divorce in Middlesex Probate Court. Richard Jackson of Thorndike street, Cambridge, is named as co-respondent by the husband, Joseph T. White of Cambridge.

Mrs. White identified several letters, among them one she wrote to Charles Chase, then of Cottage Circle, Cambridge, referring to Chase as a true "friend." Another received by Mrs. White, from William O'Brien, address unknown, referred to presents O'Brien had given her.

"I will surely be with you Monday night," the letter stated, and added that O'Brien intended to give her some perfume. The letter was addressed "Dear Josie."

ASKED NOTES BE BURNED.

In still another letter to Chase, Mrs. White asked him to be sure and "burn or tear all my notes and don't let anyone see them."

She was questioned regarding the gift of a watch from Chase by Attorney William Connors, counsel for Mr. White.

Q.—Did Chase ever give you a watch? A.—Yes.

Q.—What happened to it? A.—My husband took it away and wore it two months. Then he told me he broke it.

Reference was made by Mrs. White to an automobile party that she attended with Jackson. She denied any wrongdoing. A Mrs. Tingley, who is a Jamaica Plain divorcee, and a Mr. Mason were in the automobile, she said.

Mrs. White testified her husband went home one night just as she had supper on the table and threw the food on the floor, then picked up a knife and hurled it at her. The knife barely missed hitting her and imbedded itself in the panel of a door, she said.

A plea for custody of the couple's two children was made by Mrs. Hannah Sutherland of East Reading, aunt of Mrs. White.

White testified that Jackson and Mrs. White were together in several houses that friends of his watched. Jackson's wife told the court she is still living with her husband.

Birthday Is Here for Daniel A. Shea for 44th Time

From office boy to Assistant United States District Attorney is the record of Daniel A. Shea, Boston attorney.

Daniel A. Shea

Mr. Shea celebrates his birthday Saturday. He was born in Boston on March 1, 1880, and attended the public schools until he reached the age of fourteen. Quitting school, he obtained a job as office boy in the office of the United States district attorney.

Working in the daytime and attending night school, he mastered stenography. After this his rise was rapid, and at thirty he was admitted to the bar. A short time later he was appointed a special assistant United States district attorney, and within a few months was promoted to the regular office. Three years ago he relinquished his position to take up private practice.

Send a postcard or letter of congratulation to his home at Hingham Centre.

FEDERALS ARE CLEANING UP REBEL BANDS

Obregon Forces Continue the Drive After Routing Huerta Troops in Oil Regions

Mexico City, Feb. 28.—Federal forces under General Juan Dominguez who captured Carmen Station after a combat expect to cover the remaining 30 kilometers to Puerto Mexico without delay according to report given out by the War Department.

General Luis Gutierres, commander-in-chief of military operations in the petroleum region of Northern Vera Cruz, reported on the capture of Tuxpam, declared that the rebels scattered after a series of defeats and he believed that some were trying to join the rebel General Marcial Cavazos, operating in the States of Hidalgo and Mexico.

The whereabouts of General Sanchez, commander of the rebels in Vera Cruz, remains a mystery. Federal generals commanding sectors between Mexico City and Vera Cruz expressed the belief that Sanchez is leading the train wrecking bands which have been interrupting trains.

HOGS KILLED IN 1923 GIRDLE THE WORLD

Washington, Feb. 28.—A double file of hogs round the world at the equator and a single unbroken line from the North Pole to the southern end of South America, is the graphic picture presented by the Department of Agriculture of America's slaughter of porkers last year.

The department's statisticians calculate the 81,532,600 hogs killed for consumption would reach 81,770 miles if placed end on end, allowing four feet for each hog. The same number, they said, if placed twenty-one abreast, would form a bristling lane from New York to San Francisco.

FILM FANS JAM COURT TO SEE PEARL WHITE

Former Queen of Movies a Fashion Plate and Far From Being Antiquated

By CORINNE RICH

Pearl White

They squeezed into the small court room, flattened themselves and one another against the ting glass panels in the closed doors, and buzzed about the corridors. As many glances at the fair Pearl as posible was what they wanted. Men were in the majority.

"SURE AN EYEFUL."

"Well, she ain't so young as she used to be, but she's sure an eyeful," commented an ancient court attache with an appreciation of the beautiful.

And that explained Pearl pretty well.

After racing across the Atlantic from her recuperative retreat in Switzerland to play her role in the suit, Miss White seemed a bit tired, a trifle nervous.

Only occasionally did the old dimpled, brilliant smile of the Pearl of the movies show a row of even white teeth. And now and then, in her weariness, she folded her arms across the table and rested her head on them.

For the most part, though, she was patently interested in the proceedings and gave her answers on the witness stand in a clear, strong voice.

IS FASHION PLATE.

But if Pearl was not so brisk as of old, certainly so far as looks went she was anything but antiquated. In truth, she was a fashion plate.

With a plainly made black dress, set out demurely with a long white lace collar and cuffs, she wore a close-fitting black velour hat with a chocky white thing on the side. Her top coat was tan velour bound around the neck and wrists with deep banks of heavy light fur. There was no jewelry except two silver bracelets worn in the accustomed place and an unoffending little finger ring.

The eyes of Pearl's admirers didn't get much past her slender ankles, however. Some had rather expected to find a diamond anklet in the mode of Irene Castle. But instead they gazed on French-heeled slippers of colorful anakoskin piped with bands of patent leather, the latest work from Paris of Forty-second street.

THRILLING MOVIE.

The story of the suit in which Pearl finds herself the exact centre is as thrilling as any movie she ever made. In fact, the accident that caused Jack Beatty, an actor, to sue Miss White and the Fox Film Corporation for $50,000 occurred in the making of one of these exciting dramas.

Beatty claims that in the course of a wild ride on horseback, Miss White's mount backed into his, causing a tumble that brought him serious and permanent injuries.

A contract calling for $200,000 to be paid Miss White for her services with the corporation was exhibited, showing that she is a "more employe."

While Pearl pictured her version of the affair, the fans in the room saw breath-taking "Perils of Pauline." The old serials were swept back into favor—for a moment.

SAVES COMPANION BY LEAP IN HARBOR

Anthony Beloski, forty-six, of Stillman street, North End, a longshoreman, was rescued from drowning at Commonwealth Pier today by a fellow-worker, William H. Aubreau of Henley street, Charlestown. Beloski was trundling a wheelbarrow up the gangplank between the pier and the steamship Circlus. He slipped and plunged into the water—wheelbarrow and all, striking his head as he fell.

Aubreau jumped in after him and after a little difficulty got him back on the pier.

RUSSIA BARS SHIPS FROM BULGARIA

Moscow, Feb. 28 (A.P.).—The Russian Soviet government has sent a circular note to all the naval powers, including the United States, warning them that no ships clearing from or calling at Bulgarian seaports will be permitted to enter Russian ports on the Black Sea. The reason, the note says, is that the Bulgarians, despite protests, have compelled ship captains to take on board persons expelled from Bulgaria and ordered deported to Russia.

CONVICTS TURN OUT FAKE AUTO PLATES

Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—Prisoners in the Ohio State penitentiary have been secretly manufacturing duplicate automobile license plates and smuggling them out through confederates and paroled prisoners, Warden P. E. Thomas admitted. All of the State's auto tags are manufactured at the institution. The duplicate tags, it was pointed out would aid crooks in preventing identification of their automobiles.

MARY MARDINI

Somerville girl found not guilty in Supreme court of stealing $1200 from Court street tailor.

GIRL ACCUSED OF STEALING $1,200 FREED

Miss Mardini Shows She Had Sued Employer for $1,000 Loan Previous to Arrest

Her reputation injured by the charge that she stole $1,200 from her employer, Miss Mary Mardini, nineteen years old, of No. 16 Glen street, Somerville, went into Superior Criminal Court and came out exonerated of the alleged theft.

Testimony at the trial brought out that the girl had lent her employer $1,000 when she was only sixteen years old and worked as a seamstress. A suit for the amount of the alleged loan was pending against her employer at the time she was accused of robbing him, the girl said.

Miss Mardini's employer, Antonio Trangone, who conducts a tailor shop at No. 63 Court street, had the girl arrested recently when he claimed she refused to return $1200 in bills which he had allowed her to take home to show to her parents.

The girl had found the money in his coat pocket, Trangone had alleged, when she went to get some candy. She was completely fascinated by the sight of the bills and he could not resist her entreaties to be allowed to take them home, he said.

On the day when she was alleged to have taken the money, the girl testified, she had refused to go to dinner with Trangone because he was a married man. She denied that she dined or attended the theatre with him on previous occasions.

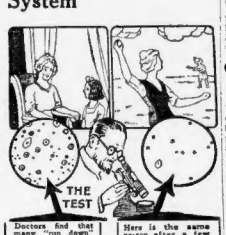
Drive the INDICAN Out of Your System

—the Danger Sign of Constipation

WARNING: INDICAN shows that your blood is clogged with toxic poisons, due to constipation. Any day these may result in nervous breakdown and disease. They often lead to rheumatism and heart and lung affections.

Whether you are constipated or not, every man and woman should immediately make this test to guard his health:

Have an analysis made of your specimen, and if the chemist reports the presence of INDICAN—as most of us "feel" healthy enough—you are because of headache, coated tongue, sour stomach and bad stomach — immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills. Near, have the other test made and see how the INDICAN disappears



Doctors find that many "run down" nervous people simply are "doped" with constipation poisons, as indicated by the INDICAN TEST.

Here is the same person after a few days' treatment by Carter's Little Liver Pills—note the clean, normal specimen, FREE FROM INDICAN.

With freedom from constipation poisons comes freedom from complexion blemishes—you eat well, sleep well and feel fit, in most cases.

Note: Carter's Little Liver Pills used for 67 years by millions of people all over the world, is a purely vegetable preparation and contains no drugs of any nature. It therefore acts in a natural way and is not habit-forming. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERBAHN, 116 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

YOUNG HUSBAND OF AGED BRIDE VANISHES

Won Roxbury Grandmother of 9 in Revival Meeting Romance

The sudden departure of George C. Davis, thirty-six years old, from his familiar haunts in Boston two weeks after his marriage to a divorcee whose City Hall age is fifty-nine, but whose son says she is seventy, has given rise to unpleasant stories.

Mrs. G. C. Davis

Guy Miller, 41, of No. 163 Roxbury street, Roxbury, the new stepson of a man five years his junior, says Davis went away because he was disillusioned.

"It was ridiculous," Miller says, "for either of them to think they could find happiness in marriage.

"I wouldn't be so uncharitable as to suggest that Mr. Davis married my mother for her money, because her savings amounted to but a few hundred dollars, and the last of this was gone when Davis up and left. He hadn't worked from the day of the wedding."

GRANDMA OF NINE.

The couple, Mrs. Lois Miller and George Davis, met at a Harrison avenue revival meeting. They sang the same hymns, enjoyed the same appeals to come forward and testify.

"Land sakes!" her son says, "the woman is the grandma of nine children.

According to the records of the Marriage Bureau in the City Hall Annex intentions of marriage were filed on February 2 and the license was issued on February 8. On the following day, Saturday, February 9, a Justice of the Peace in Roxbury told them they were married.

They lived together two weeks and one day. On Monday of this week Mr. Davis made his exit.

"I'm going up to New Hamshire and get a job," George told his friends.

BRIDE STILL LOYAL.

Mrs. Davis did not see him off. "I'm a working housekeeper," she says, "and I can't be running around forever to railroad stations. But don't you worry, our love is just as strong as ever it was. I know where my husband is, but I am not telling.

For goodness sake, whose business is it?"

Guy Miller, not the least bit unhappy because his stepfather has gone away, says his mother talks this way to keep up her courage.

AKRON TROLLEYS IN OPERATION AGAIN

Akron, O., Feb. 28.—Street cars were in operation here again today under terms of a franchise signed by City Council. The city has been without car service since February 1, when the traction company was ordered to discontinue operations by city officials. Under terms of the new franchise the Traction Company will charge a five sent fare and penny transfer.

DRIVER THROWN AND HURT IN RUNAWAY

Albert S. Nickerson, milk wagon driver, of No. 41 Mt. Vernon street, Somerville, was cut about the legs and face when his horse ran away at Charles and Leverett streets. Nickerson, driver for the Noble Milk Co., was hurled from the seat. He was treated at the Relief Hospital. The horse was stopped on Charles street by Patrolman Michael Conway of the Joy street station.

BUFFALO-TEXAS CO. CHANGES STOCK PLAN

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Officials of the Buffalo Texas Oil Company announced today that steps would be taken to set aside the stipulation entered into with the stale attorney general whereby the sale of stock in this company and the Buffalo-Southwestern Oil Company would cease.

SEABOARD FLORIDA LTD. Daily from N. Y.—7.05 P. M.

Breach of faith by the attorney general's office in making public the agreement to cease stock selling is charged by the oil company officials. Attorney Arthur R. Conley, representing the oil company, denied that $500,000 in stock had been issued on leases worth between $2,000 and $2,500, and declared that existing assets are worth at least $500,000.

AMERICANS WORLD'S BEST IN SHORT DISTANCE RUNNING

FAVORED TO CLEAN UP IN OLYMPICS

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

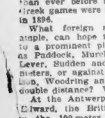
The Finns and Swedes may romp at will through the Olympic distance runs; the Finns may monopolize the points in the javlin throw, win the shot-put and discus and altogether enjoy themselves in the field events, but from 100 to 800 meters the Americans figure to be supreme, as always. In fact, they will enter stronger fields at these distances than ever before since the ancient Greek games were revived at Athens in 1896.

Jake Driscoll

What foreign sprinter, for example, can hope to break through to a prominent place against such as Paddock, Murchison, McAllister, Lever, Sudden and Kirksey at 100 meters, or against Paddock, Murchison, Woodring and Lovejoy at the double distance? We know of none.

At the Antwerp Olympics, H. V. Edward, the British negro, placed in the 100-meter event. He has been appearing in competition here for some time, but apparently cannot run fast enough to keep warm.

At 400 meters we have the strongest field of runners since Reidpath, Meredith and others ran wild at Stockholm in 1912. Among the best are: Woodring, Vernon Ancher, Jake Driscoll, Joe Tierney and J. Coard Taylor. Every one of them is capable of getting under 48 seconds, outdoors, right at this moment and, barring accidents, will be much further advanced when the gun barks at Paris.



Loren Murchison.

Our 800-meter entries are so good that there is bare possibility that Ted Meredith's world record may be erased. The best of the lot at this moment is Schuyler Enck, who recently ran Ray Watson, national champion, into the ground to set a new world's indoor record of 1:54 2-5.

If he keeps his form, Enck may better this by 2 full seconds outdoors. Watson is a bit overtrained at the moment but should well beat 1:54 for the full half-mile.

Another 1:54 man is Allan Helffrich, the intercollegiate champion. He can step in any company and will prove it at Paris. This trio should and probably will, run one, two, three.

DEATH CLAIMS TOM LYNCH AT HARTFORD

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 28.—Thomas J. Lynch, former president of the National League is dead.

Death came at the Hartford Hospital, after an illness of six weeks, in which he was 65 years of age, began his baseball career on the sand lots in his early youth, and his interest in the national game continued through his many years as an umpire and later as president of the National League.

Besides his interest in baseball, he was interested in the Lyceum theatre in this city for many years. He was a prominent Elk.

TOM KIRBY A WINNER IN NEW YORK BATTLE

New York, Feb. 29.—Joe Lucarus of Cornell won the intercity amateur boxing 115-pound championship in Madison Square Garden, when he decisioned Jack Williams of Yonkers in four rounds. The judges called for an extra period before they would decide the issue.

Tom Kirby of Boston put up a fine bout against tough Yale Okum in a special light heavyweight match. The Bostonian has improved greatly and fairly blinded Okum with his clever left jabs. The vote was two to one for Kirby at the end of three rounds.

In the 125-pound class "Red" Grifin of Boston defeated Paul Guiotta in four rounds.

GILBOY POST WILL HOLD SHOW TONIGHT

Followers of amateur boxing will take K. of C. Hall, Somerville, their rendezvous tonight.

Gilboy Post, V. F. W., will stage an open tourney for novices in the 112, 118, 125, 135 and 147-pound classes.

Maurice Despres of Lawrence, a 118-pound flashing boy who has won in this country about three years, promises to be the sensation of his class, as he has won all his bouts to date in short order.

EUGENE CRIQUI WILL SEEK ANOTHER BOUT

Paris, Feb. 23.—Eugene Criqui has decided to re-enter the ring and plans to leave for New York in June to seek a return match with Johnny Dundee, who, he says, promised him an opportunity in writing before Criqui's departure from New York last August.

Criqui is doing light training.

BRAVES START PRACTICE IN A GALE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 28.—Manager Dave Bancroft's Tribesman began their Spring stunts by a double workout in the face of a wind which came down from the North with souvenirs of the frosty conditions which must obtain north of the Mason and Dixon line.

Tim McNamara

Manager Dave had his squad of fifteen hustling at Waterfront Park and it wasn't much after that before the crack of the bat had announced to passing St. Petersburg fans that the Boston Spring practice session had opened.

THERE WERE NO THRILLS IN THE FIRST PRACTICE.

There was nothing thrilling in this initial workout. For the first fifteen minutes or so it was simply a case of lob the ball around and limber muscles that had been out of action for a few months.

Mickey O'Neil, Rube Marquard and Larry Benton are overweight, so Manager Bancroft figured that the best way to get these men to reduce was to order a little road work. He made them run three times about the park, which has nearly the same area as Braves' Field.

Any player who didn't get up a good sweat during the bunting practice made amends after the steady trot, and Manager Bancroft intends to keep his charges at it until a lot of superfluous poundage has been shed.

DUKE OF MARLBORO WILL WAIT UNTIL REST ARRIVE.

The veteran Charlie Farrell doesn't intend to get into harness until the other members of the team reach here. He started in to coach Kamp Lucas and the young twirlers but devoted a lot of time to Phillips and Cousineau, college recruits, who may make the going hard for Earl Smith and Frank Gibson although neither has arrived.

It may be recalled that the Braves' management was quite willing to send over Smith or Gibson to the Cardinals in exchange for Big Pfeffer a few weeks ago.

Manager Bancroft is evidently looking on Mickey O'Neil to be his star backstop while in Cousineau and Phillips he has a couple of likely prospects who may be retained when veterans will be turned loose.

RED LUCAS LOOKS A LOT LIKE MARTY OTOOLE DID.

Red Lucas, one of the lightest men in the squad but a pitcher of whom a lot is expected is a ringer for Marty O'Toole, who once twirled for Pittsburgh. Larry Benton says that this Lucas has a world of stuff and is besides a whale once hitter as he was used as pinch batter both in the Texas and the Cotton States leagues.

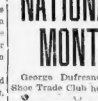
Although it was figured that the Braves' new leader would confine his practice drill to one session daily, Manager Bancroft announces that the men will work out both morning and afternoon excepting on such days as exhibition games are scheduled.

And even on these dates, the younger recruits and the men not figured on to play will get their two workouts just the same.

Judge Fuchs is delighted at the way in which Waterfront Park has been improved and paid Tom Pallais a fine tribute for his splendid work.

EAGLES BATTLE NATIONALS OF MONTREAL

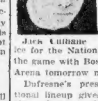
George Dufresne, former Boston Shoe Trade Club hockey player, over whom the bitterest controversy in the history of American-Canadian hockey was waged four years ago, and who was granted his amateur card by Canadian officials, will be in centre ice for the Nationals of Montreal in the game with Boston College at the Arena tomorrow night.



Jack Gilhane

Dufresne's presence in the National lineup gives hockey fans an idea of what the Canadians will present against the Eagles. Every man, except the goalie is a skilful stick handler. The Montreal boys play open hockey and depend upon their speed and skill to outwit opponents.

There is friendly rivalry between Montreal teams and Boston College. The fact that the local collegians took the measure of the McGill University team on two successive occasions indicates the esteem in which B. C. is regarded in Montreal circles.



Henry Grooden

Two outside teams will be imported next week. The Nationals of Nashua, N. H., another bunch of Flying Frenchmen who have made an excellent record this season, will play Boston College next Wednesday night.

The Shamrocks of Ottawa, Chuck O'Connor's famous team, will play Boston College a week from tomorrow night.

The week-end attraction that follows should be replete with action. The Maples will tackle the Ottawa Shamrocks in one game and the B. A. A. will figure in its all-important clash with the Boston Hockey Club.

EPINARD OUT OF THE LINCOLNSHIRE

Paris, Feb. 28.—Epinard, Pierre Wertheim's star racer, has been scratched from the Lincolnshire Handicap, in which he was entered. The hardness of the ground has prevented his proper training.

Basketball Notes

Plenty of action is looked for tomorrow night at the Girls' High School Hall, Pembroke street, South End, when the strong Cathedral A. A. team meets the Mt. Pleasant C. A. of Roxbury in a Greater Boston League game. The Cathedral team is the favorite, but the lads from the Roxbury section have many backers. The church five is relying mostly on the work of "Zibber" Foley, their star forward, to bring home a win.

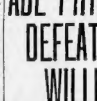
Chelmsford, Fla., Feb. 28.—Charles H. Ebbets of the Dodgers announces that Infielder Andy High had signed a contract and will report for Spring training in a few days.

ABE FRIEDMAN DEFEATS KID WILLIAMS

Providence, R. I., Feb. 28.—Abe Friedman of Boston, the new England bantam champion, made big hit at the Marieville A. C. when he disposed of Kid Williams of Baltimore, in eight rounds.

Williams lost on a foul. He broke the rules to save himself from an impending knockout. Williams was warned several times by the referee for infraction of the rules but disregarded the third man in the ring.



Abe Friedman

Friedman took every round. It was obvious that the Baltimorian could not last the full distance.

There was a large crowd present and everybody was satisfied that Friedman proved the better fighter.

Alexander Ranks with Wonder Men of Sport

By DAMON RUNYON

You read in the news of the day that Grover Cleveland Alexander celebrates his thirty-seventh birthday in the training camp of the Chicago Cubs.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, called "Alex the Great," is getting into condition for another baseball season.

Alex the Great

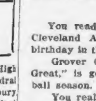
You realize, with a start, that Grover is an old man, as baseball age goes.

It seems but yesterday that he was a slender stripling with the Philadelphia Nationals, mentioned in the papers as a "promising youngster."

How many of the hundreds of "promising youngsters" now in the Spring training camps will be celebrating their thirty - seventh birthdays there?

Not many, you may be sure of that.

The Grover Cleveland Alexander, the Walter Johnsons, the Babe Adamses are rare. The late thirties find the average ball player in some other business.



Walter Johnson.

For the information of those who have been following the case of Al Lippe in this column, the writer will state that today he presented Mr. Lippe to Dr. George A. Soper, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Dr. Soper heard with deep interest Mr. Lippe's recital of his experience and of his apparent cure at the hands of an elderly woman, Mrs. Mae Sheridan of Los Angeles, by means of a formula handed down to her by her father, a physician.

Dr. Soper and the society he represents will make a complete investigation, with the thought of transmitting to the general public Mrs. Sheridan's cure if it be a cure.

The writer's interest in the matter ends here, aside from a natural curiosity as to the final result. It is best that a thing of this kind be handled without undue publicity until its value to humanity is determined.

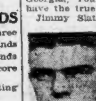
"Ma" Stribling, mother of the youthful light heavyweight from Georgia, "Young" Stribling, seems to have the true maternal spirit.

Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, was given the decision over her son after a warm six-round battle Monday night. "Young" Stribling and "Pa" Stribling, his father, had no comment to offer on the decision.



Young Stribling

"Ma" Stribling, bridling with indignation, is quoted as expressing the opinion that "Young" Stribling should have had the decision.

Offhand you may say that the maternal sentiment caused "Ma" to place her opinion against the judgment of two judges and one referee. The writer tells you that it is merely the managerial spirit.

This column was first to mention Quintin Romero-Rojas, the heavyweight champion of Chile, now invited to America for a series of battles to culminate in a match with Jack Dempsey, if the Chilean survives the try-outs.

Romero-Rojas, the last name pronounced as if spelled Ro-hass, is a man a little larger than Dempsey. He is a poor boxer, but he strikes a powerful blow with his right hand. Also, it is said he is quite courageous.

In Paris, where he first attained note, they called Romero-Rojas "The Wolf of the Andes," in imitation of the nickname "The Wild Bull of the Pampas" applied to Luis Firpo by the writer.

Romero-Rojas is managed by a life-long friend, a Chilean. They have brotherly affection for each other. Romero-Rojas is of powerful build as hairy as Firpo and speaks no English.

LESLIE BANCROFT A WINNER AT FLORIDA

Palm Beach, Feb. 28 (Universal)—The international aspect of the Florida tennis tournament was removed when Miss Leslie Bancroft, the Boston crack, eliminated Miss B. Bellehouse of Cheshire, England, the only foreign entrant, in a third round match, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs. Molla Mallory was carried to a 7-5 score in her first set by Mrs. DeForest Candee of New York, but then unleashed the full ferocity of her strokes and took the second set and match, 6-0.

Filar broke the undergraduate code and was censured. He was a star man in the forty and 100-yard

BILL PIERCY OF RED SOX IS A HOLDOUT

By FRED C. LANE

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 28.—It's a little late in the season to discuss hold outs and though Boston fandom was given to believe that all had signed on President Quinn's pay roll, we are inclined to believe that Bill Piercy will have almost dickering to do before he dons his uniform.

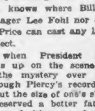
Bill was ordered to camp on February 18. He was to report with the rookies and veteran hurlers but he is among the missing. No one in this section knows where Bill is, neither Manager Lee Fohl nor Secretary Jim Price can cast any light on the subject.

Bill Piercy

Perhaps when President Bob Quinn shows up on the scene he can clear the mystery over this player. Though Piercy's record on paper is about the size of one's shoe, he really deserved a better fate.

The Hollywood children was known throughout the circuit as "Hard Luck Bill." It looks very much as though the Red Sox will have a better team as Piercy will help them to fight for a berth nearer the top.

The best and longest practice session since arriving was held yesterday. Three hours of real work on a heavy field tired the players. Every man of the squad of 26 was on hand.



George Murray

George Murray was on the mound for a short spell to get rid of rain cramps. Manager Fohl watched Handsome Georgie and "Shiek" Fullerton and though silent as the sphinx, was elated with their work.

Howard Ehmke was out and around, but confined his activities to a little "pepper" game and a trot or two about the field. The Red Sox pitching ace of 1923 is always among the first to round into condition each year, so Manager Fohl will leave Howard work out his own program of training.

The infield session was lively. With John Heving on first, Schilling and Geygan at second, Massey and O'Brien at short, Donaldson and Hardgrove at third, Dale Adams as catcher and Lefty Leifield at bat, two hours of real baseball were furnished.

These combinations showed real pep. At times the youngsters were inclined to cut loose, but warnings from Fohl held them back.

Ray Massey, the diminutive coal miner from Huntington, W. Va., made his debut in a Red Sox uniform and cut quite a figure.

Pat Hardgrove at the hot corner looks better than the average rookie and, although not slated to fill a regular berth, will be brought along to Boston when the club makes the trip home.

BATTLING SIKI NOW IN HAVANA HOSPITAL

Havana, Feb. 28.—"Battling" Siki, Senegalese pugilist, was taken to a hospital and is suffering from bronchial pneumonia. Orders have been given by his physicians that the fighter must have absolute rest. He is regarded as seriously ill.

Siki, who came here a week ago to take part in heavyweight bouts, caught cold and in a half delirious condition escaped from his room and wandered on the streets until policemen caught him. He appeared much better but his fever rose again and he lay flat on his back and "shadow-boxed" despite the pleas of his nurse.

ST. JOSEPHS PLAN TOURNEY MARCH 6

The St. Joseph's T. A. S. will stage an amateur boxing tournament at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, on March 6. There will be bouts in the 108, 126, 135 and 147 pounds, open classes, and 128 pounds and heavyweights, novice classes.

Indications point to a banner show. Entries will be received by William H. Cuddy, No. 95 Cambridge street.

Great Time for B. C. Sextet

Boston College ice hockey team was given the best time ever at West Point in their recent ice battle. A former B. C. lad, a future officer of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, was a guiding light for the Eagle players.

Owen to Talk at "Y"

George Owen, Jr., famous Harvard athlete, will be the weekly speaker at the men's meeting to be held at the Huntington avenue Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon. Owen's subject will be "Playing the Game."

KOTSONAROS AND TARAMASCHI ALL SET FOR BIG MAT BOUT

STASIAK IS ALSO ON CARD

GILL'S PICKS.
Kotsonaros to beat Taramaschi.
Stasiak to win over Kokotronis.
Farmer Bailey to defeat Albright.

Angelo Taramaschi, Italian title-holder, and George Kotsonaros, the champion of all Greek wrestlers, are all set and primed to crawl through the ropes at the Grand Opera House tonight to settle their international championship wrestling match.

The conditions call for a finish match, best two falls in three, to a positive finish. A victory to either man will mean a lot. It will place the winner right on the top of the heap with the best wrestlers in the East. The winner will be recognized for a bout with Strangler Lewis, Stanley Stasiak or either of the Zbyszko brothers.

Stanley Stasiak

Kotsonaros plans a shifting, rushing style of battle, to feint his opponent into knots as would a boxer and when he has outguessed his Italian rival, put on the winning hold.

To meet this attack Taramaschi will go in with his bull dog, pound-away tactics that we believe sooner or later will spell victory for him.

In his match with Lewis he almost forced the champion to surrender with his arm scissors. One or two of these holds on the Greek may bring home the bacon. The Italian is a dangerous man for any one to meet. He isn't spectacular, but he knows wrestling and knows it from the mat up.

Kotsonaros is considered by some the world's cleverest wrestler. His work on his feet is a revelation to the wrestling game. With twenty pounds of weight added this season he has a chance with any man alive.

Stanley Stasiak, now rounding into wonderful shape, will appear on the card in a one-fall contest with Kokotronis, the new Greek heavyweight. The Greek weighs 215, and will make the Polish Lion go at top speed to win.

George Farmer Bailey, the Brattleboro strong man, will be seen in action. Bailey thinks the big fellows are all side-stepping him and is out to force the issue. He will meet Jack Albright in a one-fall finish contest. Jack is at his best against big men and is of the opinion that in a one-fall bout he can save Stasiak, Lewis or Zbyszko the trouble to meet the farmer champion.

EAGLE FIVE IS WINNER OVER BEAVERS

Boston College defeated Technology in a slow game at the Tech Gym, 29 to 17. The Eagle led all the way. Technology threatened in the last few minutes only.

Mooney and Carroll were the high scorers for B. C. with a total of three shots each. Carroll contributed three fouls. Both played an outstanding game, and the shots were for the most part directed to Carroll from Melley and Hickey.

The Eagle defence was the best displayed this season, and kept the Beaver players from raising the score to anywhere above half B. C.'s total. Tech was weak in shooting fouls, and lost at least a dozen chances to score by this means.

Simonds and Davidson were the stars for the Engineers, and each hung up a trio of goals. Forrester also played a good, hard game, but failed to penetrate the superb defence of the Eagle.

The summary:

BOSTON COLLEGE		TECHNOLOGY
Murphy, Waldron, Flynn, r.f.	l.g., Caine, Hastings
Carroll, l.f.	r.g., Davidson, Lee
Hickey, c.	c., Johnson
Harrison, Mockler, r.g.	l.f., Forrester, Lankton

TRIPLE A SIGNS TENDLER AND FRIEDMAN

Lew Tendler, heavy-hitting Philadelphia lightweight, and Sailor Friedman of Chicago have signed to meet in a ten-round bout in a show to be staged by the Armory A. A. at Mechanics Building on March 25.

Lew Tendler

Tendler is one of the world's leading lightweights. He has been the only man who has seriously threatened Benny Leonard's lightweight title.

Lefty Lew has found it difficult to make the lightweight limit and so has branched forth as a full-fledged welterweight.

Friedman knocked out Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York, while he toyed with Willie Harmon at Mechanics Building. Few welterweights care to have anything to do with Friedman.

As the auto show goes into Mechanics Building in March while the ice will remain in the Arena until the last of next month, this is the first major league attraction announced for March.

Pittsfield Will Enter

Pittsfield, Feb. 28.—Pittsfield High School basketball team plans to enter the fourth annual invitation interscholastic basketball tournament of New England at Tufts, March 21 and 22.

Fans, warm up the baseball dope.

Boston's biggest baseball contest starts Monday.

Ten tickets will be given away each day for 20 days.

One hundred Red Sox fans and as many Brave rooters will be guests of the BOSTON AMERICAN on opening days. They will be big days, too. Extra bands, parades, and everything.

It will be a real contest—no trick stuff. Every fan has a chance.

Get ready and start the contest Monday.

Amherst, Feb. 28.—Emory E. Grayson '17, has been appointed varsity baseball coach at Massachusetts Agricultural College, according to an announcement of Prof. Curry S. Hicks, manager of athletics.

Grayson for four years coached the two-year course baseball teams and has turned out some very creditable nines. Grayson is also well-known as a basketball player, having played with Holyoke, Fitchburg, Gardner Webster and Marlboro teams.

Howard Gordon of Ipswich, coach of the varsity hockey squad, will coach the freshman baseball team.

Lorin Ball of Amherst, who coached the two-year football men last Fall, and the freshman basketball team this Winter, will coach the two-year baseball team.

DARTMOUTH HOCKEY SIX HAS TWO GAMES

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 28.—Because of the lack of ice which has forced the discontinuance of all practice since Monday, the Dartmouth hockey sextet left here today for St. Paul's School, Concord, where they will hold practice preparatory to their trip to Philadelphia.

The Green plays Penn at the Quaker City Arena Friday night and closes the season against Princeton on Saturday.

EASTERN SOCCER FINAL ON MARCH 9

New York, Feb. 28.—The Eastern final of the National Football Association's challenge cup competition between Bethlehem Steel and Fall River soccer teams has been postponed a week, from March 2 to 9, because of unfavorable playing field conditions.

SKATING ARRAY AT MEMORIAL CARNIVAL

The greatest array of professional fancy, figure and acrobatic skaters will participate in the annual ice skating carnival for the benefit of the Ellis Memorial House tonight at the Arena.

Miss Fenno

The program is made up entirely of professional numbers. Lovers of brilliant skating will witness remarkable acts without fear of falls so common when amateurs skate.

In the list of skaters, here for the first time, is Hilda Rickert, one of the finest skaters in the world. In the same class with Miss Rickert is Cathleen Pope who will be assisted by Freda Peterson.

Other new faces in the carnival are Bill Small, the famous black face comedian; Francis Le Mair and his partner, Miss Reynolds.

Other leading professionals in tonight's carnival are Bobby McLean, former American speed skating champion now famous as a fancy skater on long runners; Willie Frick originator of the famous candle dance; Edmund Lemy in his renowner barrel jumping act; Stone and Darling the hit of the Arena opening and Leah Croger Muller and Laura Jean Carlisle in singles acts.

Miss Marion Fenno, chairman of the committee directing the carnival reports a lively interest in the big skating affair.

CHINESE STAR ON BASKETBALL TEAM

The Honolulu basketball team, made up mostly of Chinese players, is coming to New England. The team has a record of thirty-two wins against eight defeats so far this season and is coached by Charlie Bailey, an American chap.

Captain Bert Lai's quintet is due in Boston the first of the month. Their first game will be on Sunday with the strong Woonsocket team on the Rhode Islanders' court. On the following night they will meet the Bristol five and on Tuesday are scheduled for Haverhill.

Somerville fans will get a look at the snappy Honolulu quintet when they meet the 101st team at the Somerville armory. Saturday of next week they will be the attraction at Plymouth against the Cape lads, while on Sunday they will again go back to Rhode Island to display their wares.

The following week will be devoted to New Hampshire and Vermont sections. On March 10 they will be at Wilton, N. H., and on the following four days will drop off at St. Johnsbury, Montpelier, Gilman and Allenton, in the order named.

They will close their stay here when they play the Laconia, N. H., basket shooters on Saturday, March 15. Teams desiring this good attraction on open dates communicate with Bill Leonard, telephone Kenmore 4361.

WISCONSIN SUSPENDS MITCHELL AND MORAN

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 28.—Pinkey Mitchell, junior welterweight champion, was suspended by the Wisconsin Boxing Commission until April 1.

The suspension is the result of his failure to weigh in at the stipulated hour for his match with Lew Tendler.

Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, has been suspended for sixty day. During the past month Moran accepted tentatively several dates to box Johnny Mendelsohn of this city but found some reason for not appearing.

ELI PREXY FOR CONTROL BY CAPTAINS

New Haven, Ct., Feb. 28.—"With due regard to proper medical supervision in such games as football, where men may be injured or suffer from serious exhaustion, I should like to see the teams play their own game entirely free from supervision of the coach," said President James Rowland Angell, in a statement in the Yale News.

Charley O'Hearn

President Angell wrote his statement, the News says, in order to clear up any misunderstanding concerning his views towards sports as recently expressed.

"Although I think many improvements are possible in the conditions under which college teams are coached," says President Angell, "both as regards the status of the coaches and the methods employed, the point in which I should like to see the most immediate change is the restoring to the captains and the members of the teams the responsibility for the conduct of the actual contest, once a game starts."

The condition prevailing in rowing, President Angell said, best illustrated his meaning.

"The result perhaps cannot be brought about instantly in all sports," he said, "but it can certainly be done very quick if we desire it, and I hope that Yale may be a leader in the movement."

84-YEAR-OLD MAN MADE YOUNG AGAIN

"Have Found Fountain Of Youth in Korex," Says Oklahoman.

Made young as a man of 30 years virtually, 84-year-old J. L. Rowell, well-known rancher of Kaw City, Oklahoma, declares that his amazing rejuvenation was brought about in a few days by an exceedingly simple method.

"I am as young and vigorous as I was at 30," he says, "and am getting in better condition than I ever thought possible. Before I tried this method, I wished I was dead. I was in so hopeless a condition. I was skeptical and had lost faith in everything. Now in a few days, my glands are awakened and I am enjoying a complete rejuvenation and restitution of my youthful vigor."

Six months have passed since Mr. Rowell made his test, and he is still convinced that the beneficial effects are lasting. He says, "I have found a real fountain of youth."

Speedy Results Reported

Mr. Rowell used the new much talked of korex method—the discovery of a Missouri pharmaceutical chemist. As told in a recent issue of the Kansas City Journal, many others are announcing delightful effects received in from 24 hours to a few days after its use. Speedy satisfaction has been reported in cases of weakness after the flu, stiff joints, aching muscles, exhausted nerve force, premature old age and low vitality. Enthusiastic users tell of blessed relief even in obstinate cases of years standing, where all other treatments had failed. This method involves no tremendous expense or painful operation. Tablets are used and are taken privately. It contains no drastic drugs and those who have tested it say the effect is a healthful, natural, lasting invigoration.

Available to All.

So many successes have been reported that the American distributors have decided to make the compound available to any person reading it, with the understanding that it costs nothing should it fail to satisfy. Those now wishing to try this amazing invigorator under the terms of this money back guarantee may write to the Melton Laboratories, 3965 Melton Building, Kansas City, Mo., and a full strength regular two-dollar trial treatment will be mailed in a plain, sealed package. You may enclose two dollars or simply send your name without money and pay two dollars and postage upon delivery, in either case, if you report within ten days you are not satisfied, the laboratories will refund the purchase price upon request. These laboratories are thoroughly responsible and financially reliable. Anyone may accept their guaranteed offer with implicit confidence.

SICK NEED NOT RESORT TO QUACKS IN BOSTON

HOSPITALS ARE OPEN TO ALL

Massachusetts General Is to All, Treats Scores of Out-Patients Daily

This is the fifth of a series of articles which is a sequel to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston.

If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and fair dealing, the series will show you how to avoid quacks by patronizing Boston's health centres, the best in the country.

The Massachusetts General Hospital, in public service for more than 110 years, is one of the best illustrations of the fact that the services of physicians and surgeons of recognized ability cost much less than the services of quacks.

The out-patient department of the Massachusetts General daily treats scores of patients suffering from all manner of diseases and injuries.

These patients are treated by physicians who are among the leaders of the medical profession, not only in Boston and Massachusetts, but throughout the country. The charge for the service of these men in the out-patient department is a single half-dollar.

SMALL BEGINNING.

The average quack doctor charges from $3 to $5 for a preliminary "examination."

It isn't hard for the average person to figure out which is the cheapest—the quack or the highly specialized staff of medical experts at the Massachusetts General.

From a small beginning this institution has grown to a group of twenty buildings, including medical, surgical, convalescent wards, an out-patient department, nurses training school and administration building.

"It was here in the Bulfinch Building on October 16, 1846, that Drs. Morton and Warren performed their first painless operation through the administration of ether," Dr. Frederic A. Washburn, for fifteen years director of the hospital, explained. "The news of this great discovery travelled all over the world.

DEPENDS ON GIFTS

"Also, the first work in social service as applied to hospital conditions, was begun here. We have a training school of about 250 nurses, and about twenty-five social service workers in the field.

"Not only do we treat the people of Boston and Massachusetts, but all New England. Odd cases which puzzle physicians in other States and cities are brought here for observation, as our clinics include cases of very obscure diseases.

"Contrary to popular belief, we do not receive a cent from either city or State. Over a hundred years ago we were helped by the Commonwealth, but not since that time. This institution is maintained exclusively by the gifts of private benefactors and by ward and out-patient department fees. Otherwise we would be out of existence."

HAS WIDE SCOPE.

The departments and clinics are: Male medical, female medical children's medical, male and female surgical, orthopedic, genito-urinary, dermatological, neurological, laryngological and dental. Non-pulmonary tuberculosis, arthritic, diabetic, cardiac, industrial, infantile, post-graduate, nutrition service, thyroid, convalescent and anaphalaxis clinics; and vaccine, X-ray, massage and baking treatments.

The Out-Patient Department is open daily from 8 to 10 a. m. except Sundays and holidays.

The Emergency Ward is open 24 hours of every day.

The ward fee is $21.50 per week.

The out-patient fee is 50 cents.

Absolutely no charge made if patient is unable to pay.

In the Summer months, tents are pitched on the hospital grounds for convalescents.

330 CASES A DAY.

The Phillips House with its private wards has all the appointments of a hotel. This for the more well to do class of patients. They may hire one room or suits of rooms, and buy every luxury they can afford. This is the only building where patients are not admitted free.

An average of 330 cases a day are taken care of by the Out-Patient Department. In 1923 there were patients from Texas, California, Canada, Nova Scotia and South America treated at this hospital. No distinctions of race or religion are made.

The Hospital is anxious to erect another building for patients of average means, and all donations to this end would be greatly appreciated. Dr. Washburn has as his first assistant Dr. Geo. A. MacIver.

BELIEVE WOUNDS SELF-INFLICTED

The four men whom police of the East Dedham street station held pending an investigation in the case of George Donahue, thirty-four years old, who was found unconscious in his gas filled room at No. 19 Rollins street, South End, bleeding from four stab wounds, received his injuries, were released when police were informed by City Hospital authorities that Donahue was also suffering from alcoholism and is believed to have inflicted the wounds himself.

BEST DOCTORS COST LESS THAN QUACKS

AT MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL

Nurse dressing face of baby patient in skin clinic of the Massachusetts General Hospital. The out-patient fee at the West End Institution is only fifty cents, and all the knowledge of the medical profession's leaders are at the disposal of the sick in contrast to the irresponsible treatment of quacks and irregular doctors at a far greater cost.

WINCHESTER CLEW TO SPEVAK GIRL

ACTRESS AIDS SISTER IN DIVORCE COURT

MISS MAY SCOTT

HUBBY'S MEALS 'SPOILED' BY WIFE'S FACE

Roslindale Woman Says He Told Her She Was Mess; Given Separation

Because his wife's face spoiled his breakfast George F. Hoag refused to eat the morning meal with her at the table.

This was the story of Mrs. Annie Hoag of Roslindale, who appeared before Judge Prest in the Suffolk county probate court on a petition for separate support. Judge Prest found that Mrs. Hoag is living apart from her husband for justifiable cause and granted her $14 a week for the support of her two children Richard, 11, and Grace, 9.

"At every morning meal my husband would tell me that my face spoiled his breakfast and would leave the room if I stayed," testified Mrs. Hoag. "He used to tell me that I was a 'mess' and that no matter what I wore I could not look well.

"One day when there were no clean sox for him to put on he threw a cup of coffee at me. He was always abusing me with the vilest language. He called me terrible names and he abused the children. I was constantly in fear of him. It was just one fight after another all the time. Why, he even threw a chair at me one day because I did not open the safe quickly enough for him."

Miss May Scott, an actress at the Arlington Theatre and sister of Mrs. Hoag, testified that she had heard Hoag call his wife a 'mess'. She also testified that Hoag had admitted to her that he had not treated his wife right. She said Hoag told her he liked good times, cabarets and hotel life.

MYSTERY WOMAN HUNTED

Description of Person Hiding in Fells Tallies With Roxbury Heiress

Friends of Frances Spevak, wealthy Roxbury girl, who disappeared three weeks before the date set for her wedding to Moses Beaudne, Washington street druggist believe Miss Spevak to be the "mystery woman of the Fellsaway report" to the Winchester police by Mr. and Mrs. William Goddu.

Frances Spevak.

The story of the mystery woman of the Fellsway has given Winchester a thrill almost equal to the opening chapters of Wilkie Collins "Woman in White."

The mystery woman wants to be left alone. When spoken to she takes to flight. She has been living near the swamp.

This is how she is described by Mr. Goddu:

And this is the description of Frances Spevak which has been broadcasted over the United States in circulars offering a $500 reward for news of her whereabouts:

Age, 22; well dressed black short coat and brown colored hat, fair complexion weight 125 pounds.

Scores of probable reasons for her disappearance have been made, thoroughly investigated and proved to be impossible.

SAW GIRL IN WOODS

Early on Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Goddu, of No. 2 Goddu avenue, Winchester, saw the young woman who has been described walking into the woods off Fellsdale road, near Highland avenue.

The road is newly built, and the unusual sight of a stranger walking about there led Mr. Goddu to follow the young woman.

Suddenly leaving the road, the girl turned into the woods, just outside the Middlesex Fells. Taking the bridle path, she walked along quickly in a northeasterly direction, until finally she descended through thickets into a swamp covered with underbrush.

Reaching this swamp, the mystery girl sat down and Goddu approached her.

"Are you lost?" he asked, "Can I be of any assistance?"

Without so much as a word the girl jumped to her feet and hurried away. Goddu finally lost sight of her at 6.30 p. m. at South Border road.

For 48 hours, officers of the Middlesex Fells division of the Metropolitan Police have been searching the woods without result. Mounted Officer Edward Shea has covered 12 miles in his investigation. A search in the Long Pond neighborhood will be undertaken next.

Girl Proprietor Waved Knife at Charges and Threatened to Cut Off Their Heads

Miss Earle who is twenty-six years old, testifying in her own defence, admitted threatening children with a carving knife and telling them she would "cut off their heads and arms" if they were not good. Witnesses testified that she had struck children in the face with the toes of a hairbrush.

'RAFFLES' IN FREAK BREAKS

Cambridge Burglar Who Spurns Valued Loot for Trifles Mystifies Police

An eccentric burglar who apparently does his stealing for fun and not for loot, has the Cambridge police department mystified. The intruder doesn't play the game according to Hoyle and therefore the sleuths are lost.

The unusual thief entered the home of Edward Carey, No. 14 Carlisle street. He got into a bedroom where Carey's vest was hanging. In the pocket of the vest was a valuable watch secured to which was a chain of little value.

The thief detached the watch from the chain, pried the watch on the door jamb, tied the chain and disappeared.

The baffling Raffles then went to the home of Albert Parker at No. 76 Inman street, Cambridge. He rang the front door bell and when Mrs. Parker went to the door he slipped around the house and rifled a bedroom.

When Mrs. Marion Parker entered her room a short time later, she found a diamond ring worth several hundred dollars cast carelessly on the floor. Fifty dollars in bills lay on the dresser. Only a $10 note was taken from the room.

March is Shepard Month in Boston

When The Shepard Stores Pass In Review

I cannot but feel that it is well to acquaint the purchasing public with the inside workings of The Shepard Stores.

With this thought in mind, the adjoining memorandum is published just as it was issued to Department Managers early in January, that everything might be ready for March—Shepard Month in Boston.

John Shepard 3d
President

1. This year the Annual Spring Sale will be the usual great selling event of former years—AND MUCH MORE!
2. The Shepard Stores are forging ahead along a well-defined plan of development. We have better fixtures, better merchandise and better personnel. The public is rapidly awakening to a full appreciation of our activities. We must seize this moment to emphasize our increased ability to do business.
3. March, then, will be known as "Shepard Month in Boston."
4. Not only will we have remarkable merchandise offerings to make during this month according to schedule, but we will back them up throughout the store by an intensified effort in every section by every individual in the entire organization.
5. For us, March will be the time of testing and strengthening our ability at every point of store service. It will be the month in which we pass in review before the people of New England that they may measure our worth as an institution whose entire claim to existence is SERVICE—Service rendered in as many ways as there are divisions in this organization.
6. There will be inspection and grading of efficiency within the store of every branch of its activities, be it stock-keeping or delivery, advertising or salesmanship. The work of no individual is exempt—whatever is done in the store will come under the critical eye of someone during March.
7. Managers of all departments should consider now their readiness to undergo this test of strength and eliminate weaknesses as rapidly as possible.
8. These words represent a definite determination to do three things—
   —To enter this Annual Event better prepared than ever before.
   —To win the added approval of the public by as nearly perfect service as possible.
   —To leave this event a permanently better store because of individual departmental improvement all along the line.
9. March 1st is the "Zero Hour"! Much preparation is necessary. If there is doubt in your mind as to what is expected of you, lose no time in talking the matter over with the executive who controls your department.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

"USE MULSIFIED"

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

PSYCHIC GIRL MYSTIFIES POLICE

Pictures Crimes Scenes and Furnishes Clews to Malefactors in New York

New York, Feb. 28.—Miss Eugenie Dennis, young and beautiful psychic from Kansas, who will leave for Boston shortly, demonstrated her powers before the most noted criminologists at police headquarters, and following the test it was declared Miss Dennis will be used in an effort to solve some of the current police problems.

Among those present at the test were Commissioners Faurot and Shaw, Inspector Fay and Captains Carey and Stapleton.

Inspector Fay held the police records of the Schneider murder, for which Mrs. Anna Buzzi was convicted. The names of the parties concerned were not given to Miss Dennis. Inspector Fay said:

"There was a man found dead in the Bronx. Can you describe the place where he was found?"

PICTURES MURDER SCENE.

Since neither the inspector nor Miss Dennis mentioned any names, the police and the newspaper men present did not know which case was referred to until Miss Dennis said there was a dark stout woman implicated. Inspector Fay nodded and Miss Dennis continued:

"She didn't commit the actual crime, but she put a man up to do it."

Inspector Fay questioned her concerning the killing of two policemen a few months ago. Miss Dennis immediately [illegible] into a description of the Romanelli and Reynolds [illegible] who have never been solved. She predicted that the murderer would be arrested in Newark. She was unable to prophecy or pronounce the name of that city, never having heard of it before, she said. She explained that the name appeared before her eyes and she spelled it.

DESCRIBES SLAYER.

She said that the policemen met their death when they went to investigate a girl's screams. One of the policemen, she said, knew the girl. She described the murderer as being tall, very rough, and with a twist on the left side of his face. She gave his name and it coincided with that of a man now sought by police.

Miss Dennis then accurately described the girl whose screams led the policemen to their deaths. She also described the house in which the girl lived, and gave the police a clue to its whereabouts.

Inspector Fay said that the latter case would be investigated.

She spoke of the Dolge murder, the Ford arson case in Brooklyn and the attempted robbery of a safe.

SAID JOB WAS SURE.

There was a touch of comedy when Inspector Faurot pointed to a detective and said:

"That man is taking an examination for a civil service position. Will he be appointed?"

"Oh, yes he'll be appointed, but not in the city."

"Will he pass with a high mark?"

Miss Dennis giggled as she said:

"The examination doesn't mean anything. He's got a pull and he'll be first or second on the list."

After the interview Inspector Fay said:

"How she does it is beyond me. A gift like that would be fine for a detective. There isn't anything phoney about it. I picked out those cases and showed them to no one. I am satisfied there wasn't another person in the room that knew the cases I referred to. Of course she made a few mistakes but in almost everything she was perfect.

TO ACCEPT HER AID.

"Even if she read the newspapers, I don't see how she could know what cases I referred to."

Commissioner Faurot said:

The demonstration was convincing. She has offered us her services and we will certainly avail ourselves of them."

The Lawson case and others, the police said, had already been given to Miss Dennis. The result was not made public.

The demonstration lasted for more than two hours.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY
Boston Health Commissioner.

ABOUT the ordinary sick room there are three methods of disinfection that are in common use. All are good in their places.

These three methods are: First, sunshine and fresh air, second, heat, third, certain chemicals.

Sunshine and fresh air tend to destroy infection and therefore they should be admitted as freely as possible to the places where infection exists.

Heat as a disinfectant in the household is generally applied to utensils, articles of clothing, towels, etc., that have been subject to disease germs. Boiling is the most common method of utilizing heat as a disinfectant.

Anything that is completely covered with water which is kept actively boiling—bubbling for twenty minutes or longer—may be regarded as thoroughly disinfected. As boiling tends to fix stains, these should be removed from all articles, if practicable, before boiling.

Many articles cannot be placed in boiling water for fear of ruining them. For these articles there are chemical disinfectants. Among these are corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury), carbolic acid, compound cresol solution, formaldehyde and alcohol.

For ordinary use about the sick room only two seem necessary to consider, corrosive sublimate and cresol solution.

Corrosive sublimate, which is deadly poison, is generally purchased at the drug store in the form of tablets of about seven and a half grains each. A proper solution of corrosive sublimate to be used for disinfecting is one of these tablets to a pint of water, or eight to a gallon.

Articles to be disinfected should be thoroughly immersed in the solution and allowed to soak for thirty minutes. Rinse thoroughly when taken from the solution.

Corrosive sublimate tends to roughen the hands and darken the nails and also to fix stains. After using any of the solution rinse the hands thoroughly in warm water.

Compound cresol, on account of its unpleasant odor, is often objectionable. It [illegible] a solution of one [illegible] to [illegible] part of water [illegible] will injure [illegible].

A Clear Complexion

Ruddy Cheeks — Sparkling Eyes — Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

SIX PROPOSALS IN TALMADGE'S NEW FILM

Constance's Hand Is Much Sought in "The Goldfish," Now Being "Shot"

CONSTANCE TALMADGE has received six proposals of marriage. Jack Mulhall was first, but Jean Hersholt, Edward Connelly and William Conklin [illegible] nothing daunted, and urged their respective suits in turn. To divulge the names of the fifth and sixth suitor at this point is not feasible. Four of the proposals occurred this week during the filming of "The Goldfish," Constance's latest comedy.

EVERY WOMAN should know and practice the art of making up! "Some women," says Dorothy Mackaill, appearing in Paramount's "The Next Corner," would resent being told that they had practised the art of making up. But although they may never have had a grain of powder on their faces they make up just the same. For clothes are the principal essential in proper make-up. Paint and powder occupy only a secondary position. The woman who exercises good taste in dress is consciously trying to secure for herself the best possible appearance. Women who use paint and powder also have the same end in view. There is no excuse in this generation for women who do not make the most of their gifts. I have never yet seen a woman whose appearance was not improved in some way by the little harmless arts she practices."

COMING TO PARK THEATRE

SCENE FROM "THE GREAT WHITE WAY"

Joe Cain, the fighter (Oscar Shaw) and Mabel Vandergrift (Anita Stewart) are interrupted in their conversation by Brook Morton (Hal Forde), producer of the show in which Mabel is starring. This big Cosmopolitan film of Broadway life has its premiere in Boston tomorrow evening at the Park Theatre.

MANY THRILLS ARE FOUND IN 'WHITE WAY'

Realistic Prize Fight, Horse Race and Fire Among Big Scenes

The Cosmopolitan Corporation has been holding under cover what is said to be the greatest picture of New York life ever brought to the screen.

The great mystery that has been enshrouding the production of "The Great White Way" will be solved when the picturization of H. C. Witwer's story, "Cain and Mabel" opens at the Park Theatre tomorrow night.

The new picture, which has been six months in the making, is said to give a complete close-up of Broadway. It shows a realistic prize fight with 75,000 persons as spectators, a thrilling horse race filmed at Belmont Park, a spectacular fire and flashes of musical comedies, cabarets and week-end parties.

Among those in the cast are Anita Stewart, Oscar Shaw, T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, Harry Watson, Dore Davidson, Olin Howland, Hal Forde, Stanley Forde and Billy Gould, a long list of sporting celebrities, literateurs, artists and well known Broadway figures.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. Everett E. Hunt of Belzoni, Okla., who has three children and never any sickness, and Mrs. F. B. Kuklenski of Prosser, Wash., always give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children – calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth, phenolphthalein, a coal tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Syrup Pepsin.

This brings up subjects that arouse indignation even among persons opposed to adjusted compensation.

Let us take the insurance money history. In practically every State in the Union there is a workmen's compensation insurance act. It provides that men engaged in hazardous occupation shall be insured and the premiums must be paid by the employer.

PAID OUR INSURANCE.

In the case of the fighting men, however, engaged in the most hazardous work possible—war—the government forced the country's defenders to pay their own insurance premiums. So, out of that man's pay of $30 a month came $6.80 to pay for the veteran's life, in case he lost it.

In round figures, something like $1,250,000,000 was collected by the government in insurance premiums from fighting men. So huge is this sum that today it is being used to support the widows and orphans of men who died for their country. The only money appropriated by Congress to care for the results of men who gave all is $400,000 for administration purposes. This money, as Senator Bursum expressed it, was taken from the pockets of the fighter by the government. He purposes to return it.

Out of the remaining $823,0 0 month the fighter drew, came an average of $10 a month for allotments. In all the government took from the fighter $5,000,000 in allotments to which the government added two thirds more.

SOLD BONDS AT LOSS.

Senator Cupeland of New York declares this money should be refunded to the soldier. So you see, the veteran was supporting the widows and orphans of his dead and paying for the war, at the same time buying Liberty bonds he could not afford.

Out of the remaining $12 a month the fighter paid $2.4 month; in many cases on Liberty bonds he was practically forced to buy. When he got out of the service, having nothing, he was forced to sell the bonds at a great loss.

If the government, to reimburse insurance premiums, made good the compulsory allotments taken and reimbursed the losses on Liberty bonds, the whole amount would be greater than the cost of the adjusted compensation bill which the veteran now wants passed.

If the compensation bill is passed it will return to the soldier over a twenty-four hundred less money than the government took away from him during the war.

The soldier knows that of all the factors which contributed to winning the world's fight no man is the only one who has not had his compensation adjusted.

Tomorrow I want to devote another phase of the compensation question.

All World War veterans who believe they have a physical disability or aggravated by service, for which they have failed to seek treatment of medical aid or other benefits are urged to immediately apply for a certificate of injury.

OVER BILLION PAID U. S. BY SOLDIERS

Quinn Demands Return of Cash Taken From Pay in Form of Bonus

This is the fourth of a series of articles prepared for the Boston American by the national commander of the American Legion, giving the truth about adjusted compensation as the World War veterans view it. In the previous article Commander Quinn showed how adjusted compensation can be paid without working hardship on anyone.

By JOHN R. QUINN.
Written for Cosmopolitan News Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—You have probably read of a new so-called "bonus" bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Bursum of New Mexico.

It wants returned to the veteran the billion or more dollars taken in insurance premiums, the compulsory allotments taken from the meager pay and to reimburse the ex-service men for the money lost by virtually enforced purchase of Liberty bonds that later, through necessity, were sold at a great loss.

Railroads Are Leaders on Constructive Side in Quiet New York Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

In the South, Feb. 28.—As the presidential convention draws near, there is more and more talk of candidates among the business men one meets through the South. Would an unbiased report of the tenor of the talk and the views interest you?

• • •

Within the last week whispers have been going the rounds that Senator Copeland of New York is slated as the probable dark horse. The South doesn't know very much about him, but what it does know is unfavorable, to say the least.

• • •

William G. McAdoo's stock has fallen seriously. Rather it would be more correct to say that he is thought of the nomination as having been gravely, if not fatally, injured by the oil revelations—although most business men voice the view that McAdoo did not do anything discreditable.

• • •

Senator Underwood is forging to the front in all political discussions. He is the idol of certain sections and among many business men of the South, although in other parts he is not considered progressive enough. It would probably be in accord with the facts, however, to say that he is accepted as being the most likely candidate at the moment.

• • •

Senator Reed is either strongly favored or strongly opposed. There are no indifferent views expressed regarding him. I have heard the thought voiced quite often, however, that the death of Ex-President Wilson has militated against Reed's chances since it has revived discussion in the many biographical articles about the late President, of the Reed-Wilson fight. Whereas, Underwood is often described as perhaps too conservative to fill the bill, Reed is often described as being too far at the other end of the line.

A Josephus Daniels boom of some vigor has lately been launched by Carolinians but it has not spread widely thus far.

• • •

As for Senator Hiram Johnson, the South is taking extremely little interest in his candidacy. Whenever one brings up his name the view expressed, as a rule, is that it is not the South's affair, and that the Republicans can fight it out among themselves.

• • •

Henry Ford has a great many admirers in the South, although it may be recorded that sentiment is not at all unanimous that his Muscle Shoals bid should be accepted, especially in view of the freedom from State regulation desired by Ford. Had Henry not definitely withdrawn from the race and endorsed Coolidge, he would unquestionably have cut quite a figure in Southern political talk.

Not once have I heard any Republican but President Coolidge seriously mentioned as the opposition candidate.

But let it be added that the keenest possible interest is evinced in the question as to whether the oil scandals will tell badly against him.

The following statement made by a responsible business man reflects accurately, I believe, the majority opinion in the South:

"Until the disgraceful oil scandals began to be uncovered one after the other, and some additional prominent Republican dragged in the mire each time it was not felt that the Democrats had much of a chance against President Coolidge. But it now looks as if there would be a real fight and that the outlook for the Democrats is not at all hopeless. If a candidate be chosen who is found to be acceptable to all wings of our party—if such a thing be possible—then I think we will have at least an even chance of winning."

The following report is respectively submitted, without comment.

C. & O. IN JUMP OF MORE THAN 2 POINTS

Railroads were leaders on the constructive side in a quiet New York stock market today. Chesapeake & Ohio was up more than 2 points. Norfolk & Western was up more than a point at a new 1924 top.

There were point or better advances around noon for General Electric, Corn Products, Du Pont, Gulf States Steel, Timken Roller Bearing, Congoleum and Houston Oil.

U. S. Steel rose around a point.

Substantial trading support continued to come into the market. The advance assuming broader proportions as trading progressed.

A new high record was established by New Orleans, Texas & Mexico at 98¾.

Virginia Carolina Chemical issues again turned heavy, the preferred dropping 1⅜.

Foreign exchanges opened steady. Demand sterling $4.29⅝, up ⅛ cent; francs 4.12½ cents, up .01 cent; marks 4,650,000,000,000 to the dollar.

Boston Stock Exchange trading was dull. Price changes were fractional, with New Haven active and strong.

Hereafter Boston transactions in New York stocks will not be "ex-dividend" until they sell in that manner on the New York Stock Exchange. Buyers receiving certificates too late for transfer will be entitled to a due bill for the dividend.

AUTOMOTIVE WORK IS SPEEDING UP

Automotive Industries will say this week:—Reports from automobile producing centers for the first part of February show an increase in operations of 12 per cent. over the same period in January and a much greater percentage of increase over a year ago. It is certain that there has been no curtailment of schedules since these reports were received and that as good a pace will be maintained through March. If total output for February does not reach the figures recorded in the best production months of last year it will be because of the fewer working days for factory activities.

COTTON MILL IDLENESS IS EXTENSIVE

Drop in cotton has brought no improvement in the warped relation between cotton and the manufactured article. Goods prices failed to follow proportionately the meteoric rise in cotton from 20 cents a pound to 37 cents last Fall, but they are reflecting the current decline. Every week since the first of the year has found the average price of cloth on a lower level.

Excepting heavy purchases by the Ford Motor Co. in December, 1923 there has been no real buying of cotton textiles since March, 1923. No factor in the trade is willing to commit himself for more than a few weeks in advance. Careful observers find stocks of retailers, jobbers and wholesalers reduced to a minimum.

The mills are forced to carry the stocks and this leads to curtailment. Probably not more than a dozen representative New England mills are operating their machinery to capacity and those with orders for more than a month ahead are rare. Nor is the South escaping. The big Riverside & Dan River mills are shutting down 2,500 looms and five plants in the Piedmont district of North Carolina announce immediate curtailment. A cotton man says: "I believe idle machinery in cotton mills is even greater than in 1920."

The steady drop in prices has brought some lines to a level where buyers are becoming interested. Since the first of the week more inquiries have come into the market. Mill managements feel that below 30 cents cotton is on an attractive level and only stabilization is needed to bring about better business.

"GET RICH QUICK"

As it is, we forecast that he is very likely to "get poor quick," if he attempts seriously to carry it out. The writer does not believe in buying stocks in this way. He has never known of anyone who has won by it in the long run.

UNION PACIFIC 5S.

To F. G. A.—Union Pacific Railroad Company first lien refunding 5 per cent. mortgage bonds, due in 2008, yield a little less than 5 per cent. at current market prices. These bonds can be considered by the most conservative investors and they are legal investment for savings banks in New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey. They are issued under the first lien and refunding mortgage of the railroad company, dated June 1, 1908, and the principal as well as interest at the rate of 4 per cent. the addition of 1 per cent. interest which these bonds bear is secured under a supplemental indenture by a lien on the lines of railroad, franchises and appurtenances now or hereinafter subject to the first lien and refunding mortgage subordinate to the lien of the principal of the first lien and refunding mortgage bonds and interest thereon at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. The first lien and refunding mortgage bonds are secured by direct mortgage on 3,558 miles of railroad, on 1,486 of which they are a first lien, and upon the equipment, terminals, depots and other appurtenances embracing the main line of the Union Pacific and numerous branches. The net income of the Union Pacific this year continues to show an increase. Interest on these bonds is payable March 1 and September 1. They are redeemable at the option of the company at 107½.

ILL. BELL 5S.

To L. D. S.—Illinois Bell Telephone Company first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds, series A, due in 1956, yield approximately 5.30 per cent. at current market prices. This company does all the telephone business in Chicago and with its connecting companies serves practically the entire State of Illinois. These bonds constitute the companys' sole funded debt. They are secured by a first mortgage on substantially all the real estate, buildings and telephone plant of the company in the State of Illinois.

The book cost of the real estate, buildings and telephone plant of the company is approximately $133,000,000 and total assets of the company amount to more than $143,000,000. The present value of the company's property is greatly in excess of its book cost. The franchise situation is generally satisfactory. During the last ten years the company's net earnings available for interest have averaged more than three times charges.

$60,000 TRUST FUND.

To E. D. D.—Although you plan to buy investments for your $60,000 trust fund in Springfield, the fact that you live in New York State and that the fund is a New York one will compel you to follow the legal requirements of the Empire State.

You cannot get much more than a 5 per cent. average return on listed bonds that are legal for trust fund investment, but if a substantial percentage of the $60,000—say 25 to 50 per cent—were invested in real estate mortgages meeting the legal requirements, the average can be raised.

Our selections from the legal list would include New York Central refunding 5s, 2013, Baltimore & Ohio first 4s, 1948; Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh consolidated 4½s, 1957; Illinois Central refunding 5s, 1955; Louisville & Nashville first and refunding 5s, 2003; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie first consolidated 5s, 1938; Ohio River first 5s, 1936; Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington first 4s, 1943, and Union Pacific first and refunding 5s, 2008. For the other investment fund, which, we understand, is not restricted by law, we suggest Bush Terminal Building 5s, 1960, yielding about 5.5 per cent.; Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio first 5s, 1938, yielding about 5.8 per cent.; Alabama Power first 5s, due 1946, yielding about 5.8 per cent.; Pere Marquette first 5s, 1955, yielding 5.5 per cent.; Standard Oil of New Jersey preferred, Borden Company preferred and Western Electric preferred.

PHILIP MORRIS, LTD.

To H. R. R.—Philip Morris & Company, Ltd., Inc., owns the exclusive marketing rights in the United States for various brands of English cigarettes and tobaccos. The company does not own any real estate, or operate any factories, its entire output being manufactured for it by other concerns.

The present corporation was incorporated under Virginia laws in 1919. Capitalization consists of 2,760,000 shares of $10 par value capital stock. The book value of the stock, according to the latest published balance sheet, is $4.53 a share.

Net income in 1922 amounted to $139,041, or forty-seven (47) cents a share, compared with $41,259, or about twenty-one (21) cents a share in 1921, the first year in which an income account was made public. No record of earnings during 1923 is yet available, but from the recent statement that shipments were around fifty-five (55) per cent more than in 1922, it may be inferred that a better showing has been made than in the previous year.

A dividend of fifty (50) cents a share was paid on October 1. This was the first payment made to stockholders since 1921, when twenty (20) cents a share was paid. Twenty (20) cents was paid in 1920.

The stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

"CHICKIE"

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

Martha agreed. She found no answer for her problems

THE STORY OF "CHICKIE" THUS FAR

Chickie Bryce's first romance ended disastrously. At seventeen she had created the illusion that Arthur Sontag, a school chum, was going to propose to her, but when he announced he was going away she was broken-hearted. Then Chickie's chum, Mary Blake, was married. At eighteen Chickie secured a position in a broker's office and there met Janina, a girl wise in the ways of the world. Jimmie, Mary's brother, declares his love for Chickie, but she puts him off. Chickie meets a number of men and finally goes on a party with Jake Munson and a bunch of his friends, but her father is alarmed over what he terms his girl's waywardness.

THERE were Martha's grandchildren. They overran her house from the time her own youngest, Tommy, was in arms. Martha was a perennial mother, a great faithful tree, taking no laurels to herself, but doing her part with wise, serene tolerance.

With her deep mind and her mellow heart she might have flashed her name brilliantly before the world.

But she had loved and married.

Seven children had come to her. They were her compensation.

After all, had one the right to bring all those children here? Suppose they should be unhappy? Suppose they should scorn the gift of life thrust upon them so audaciously? They often reminded her that they had not asked her to come, they told her very coolly that her wish for children was a purely selfish instinct.

It did not merit gratitude from them.

Trust in Future

Martha agreed. She found no answers for her problems, she met them with a brave, adventurous trust in the future.

Chickie loved Martha Blake. She was such an easy, pleasant person—one that you could accost carelessly like this: "Well, what about it now—did you honestly never kiss a man in your life except your husband?"

Martha had never built up about herself the "mystery" end." She had never required that her children think her perfect, for there was not this unnatural chasm between her omnipotence and their humanity. She cheerfully admitted herself in the wrong, begged their pardon, accepted their censure. In return they loved her without bounds, sought her opinions, quoted her as a prophet.

She was in the kitchen making huge platters of sandwiches. These would be set on the dining-room table for the Sunday influx of cousins and friends.

Mary was sitting on a low stool, somewhat unbraidedly sprawled. Young Edward, whom she had just nursed, lay on her knees, bringing shy, gentle sounds from his throat. Hearing the faint cooing and evidently surprised to find himself a maker of noise, his eyes and his lips became furtis rapturous with smiles.

Mary listened, as though some beatific sympathy opened to her ears. "Do you think he's getting pretty, Chickie? Listen—that's a new one."

Chickie knelt on the linoleum, the little satiny fingers twined on her thumb. When the baby, after a prolonged gurgle, gave her a startled, inquiring look, as though it said, "Ha, ha! Did you get that? I did it!" she burst out laughing.

Asked Question

"He's going to look like Jimmy, Mary."

"Do you think so? I think he's like Edward. I want him to be like Edward."

"Why?"

"It's nice for a son to follow in his father's steps."

Chickie seized this eagerly. She asked her first question. "Do you think that, Mrs. Baker? Do you believe a father and mother should decide a child's whole life? Just because they happen to bring us here do they have the right to tell us how we should think and feel and act?"

"If I'm any example, Chickie, it's the children that tell the parents where to head in."

"Yes! Maybe! But you take Jonathan—he thinks I ought to be the very same kind of a girl mother was. Stay at home night after night—be perfectly content to work and eat and sleep and never see any of the exciting things at all. He wouldn't ask me to wear a hoopskirt or a bustle, but he expects me to take all those old ideas and just transport myself to the last century is that fair?"

"Poor Jonathan! Don't you see, Chickie, that it's only because he knows the old road was safe and led to a sure goal? How can the poor man know where the paths a girl takes today are going to twist? They run blind through a wilderness. Whether there's a land of milk and honey beyond no one yet may say."

"Oh, you think we're as bad as all that?"

"Not bad—but terribly uncertain. Don't be so hard on Jonathan."

Kiss Is Prelude

"But just the same I think he ought to be satisfied with one life. Why should he expect to live two—his own and mine? And, anyway, I don't think so much of those old days."

"No? Why?"

"Well—well, do you know that Jennie never kissed a man but Jonathan—and not till she was engaged, and then only once in a while? Do you think there's any harm in a kiss?"

Martha laughed. "That depends so much on who gives it and who takes it, and whether it's returned and taken again. You see, a kiss has such a way of weaving itself into an endless chain."

"I don't mean that kind I mean just one small kiss."

"That's an extinct species, Chickie. It went out of existence with the lavender and old lace of your mother's day. The trouble with a kiss is this: It isn't a finality, but a prelude. A faint, sweet note that may at any moment and unaware merge into the crash of terrific and swooning music. If you want to hear that, all right. But if you don't, why listen at all?"

"I suppose, then, you'd say a girl ought never to ad to kiss any one?"

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

Abe Lowe

"THANK you," Mabel replied as though the most natural of responses to the first line of a declaration. "I must confess I'm some flattered."

I found it quite difficult when I began to extricate myself from thinking what to say to her. I could not say "You and I are booked to meet Betty and Peter for dinner in an hour," but I said quietly, meeting my eyes with a look I could frame them "Mabel" when I saw Jo ghastly look on that woman's face, I decided to eliminate Peter ruthlessly and try the combination of your sunshine Betty's en her fo ure heart."

"What makes you say that?" I demanded, secretly afraid I'd hurt poor Mabel's feelings by such a thought.

"How can you be so blind to what's going on around you? You forget that I know Miss Travers. It's Peter I'm going to marry, and it isn't going to be easy, because for either of them you're Mabel isn't even happy. The poor girl thought she was making for a safe harbor when she married Bonn Buchanan. But it doesn't look as if she'd found much of a refuge. The whole city is talking of it."

"That's what she said," I acknowledged, amazed at the candor with which her story was spreading.

A Love Scandal

"It's all right," Ralph replied "Naturally folks in the new square get hold of things like this. I've known for several days that Buchanan was back at his old haunts. I didn't tell you because I thought it wouldn't do one bit of good. I'd a notion that Mabel was going to send you a wide berth and I felt that if you didn't know of her unhappiness, I owed it to both of you to hold my tongue. But since she's come to you—"

"Mabel didn't come to whimper," I cut in quickly. "She came to ask if there wasn't something she could do for me and my business."

"Is there any need, Anne?" cried Ralph. "Wouldn't you let me stand by? You know that everything I have in the world is yours for the asking."

"Don't," I begged. "If I were in sore straits, I'd always know you could be counted on. Right now you're doing more than I in the search for Neal. But I must preserve some of my mind dependence."

I felt a wistful note creeping into my voice. I tried to control it, but I was overwhelmingly

Antofagasta, the Fortress City of Nitrate Fields

OF all the forlorn and useless ant-cities, Antofagasta, Chile, is probably the most forlorn and unpleasant to a casual visitor. Nevertheless it is one of the rich[illegible] and most prosperous spots on the globe, for it is the centre of the nitrate industry.

To go ashore from a passenger ship at Antofagasta you must engage a rowboat. And the rowboat must push its way through the biggest schools of seals to be discovered in any civilized harbor on earth. The boatmen literally have to feel for a vacant spot in the water. Of course, there are not fur seals, but the variety found in San Francisco harbor.

Antofagasta is a city built on a desert—and a salt desert at that. Nothing can grow there; no trees or flowers. There is a fine, pure[illegible] salt dust in the air. You kick up clouds of it when you walk. Your clothes soon get ruined. It's a place to see quickly and escape. Yet many thousands call it their home.

Nitrates are found over a territory of several hundred miles of salt desert running north to the Peruvian border. This territory was once included in the country of Peru, but Chile went to war with Peru some forty years ago, conquered her and annexed the nitrate fields. They were a government monopoly and for many years, until the outbreak of the world war, the revenue was so great that it paid almost all the expenses of Chile. Therefore, the people of Chile paid practically no taxes.

The desolation of the nitrate fields is beyond description. The nitrate, or nitrate of soda, to name it properly, lies beneath a layer of rock, about six feet thick, composed of sand, felspar, phosphates and other mineral matters. The caliche or material which contains the nitrates consists of from 10 to 15 per cent. nitrate of soda and from 60 to 90 per cent. common salt.

The caliche is worked up on the spot for crude nitrate of soda by [illegible] the salt with hot water, [illegible] and then transferring the clarified liquid, first to a cooling tank [illegible] deposits part of its [illegible] of sodium at a high temperature, and then to another where on cooling it yields a crop of crystals of pure nitrate.

By-products of the nitrate field are iodine, common salt and other minerals. Other processes produce ammonia.

The value of nitrates to the world in renewing and enriching the soil is enormous. Germany had always used a vast quantity of Chilian nitrates and her crops suffered frightfully during the first years of the war when it was cut off. A German chemist then found a method of extracting nitrates from the air, which was of much assistance to the German armies until the end of the war. Radio American

Over 20,000 American Super books have been sold to date. Get yours before the supply is exhausted.

VOLTMETER IS HANDY FOR ANY SET

More of a Nuisance Without a Convenient Switching Arrangement

The word voltmeter, as defined by the technician, is an instrument for measuring the voltage in a circuit. To the non-technical radio fan a voltmeter means something quite different, in all probability merely an instrument that reads anywhere from two and a half dollars to eight dollars for ascertaining the condition of his storage or "A" batteries.

Every good radio installation should have a voltmeter, as it will prevent the vacuum tubes burning out prematurely because of excessive voltage applied to them. A voltmeter also facilitates the refluning of a distant station in that it will check up the action of a rheostat which often plays a very important role.

POINTS TO REMEMBER.

Although a voltmeter having a range of from one to ten volts is essential for getting the most out of a set, it is seldom used because of its expensiveness.

The real fan would not hesitate to purchase one for six or seven dollars, but the trouble is that a voltmeter is of little use on a receiving set.

If it be installed or connected across the battery it will tell the closed circuit voltage of that storage battery and nothing more. It will not tell the effective voltage applied to the vacuum tubes, since the rheostat varies this greatly.

If you have a three-unit tube, it will be necessary to employ a voltmeter for each tube, and one for the battery, which is not only prohibitive because of cost, but also because space. It would be ridiculous to see four voltmeters on a panel, as the set would look like a power house.

A FIST OF WRIST.

However, if a single voltmeter is used and a suitable switching arrangement provided, you will be able to get the voltage readings of the various tubes, as well as the battery, by a mere twist of the wrist.

The connections for such a unit are shown in the diagram. When the switch lever is thrown to the center on the extreme left it will be off of the circuit. On the second contact point (from the left) it will tell the condition of the storage battery, the third contact point will give the condition of the first tube, the fourth the second tube and the fifth the third tube.

The entire switching arrangement, including a high class voltmeter, should not cost more than eight and a half dollars. Quite an outlay at first, but a well worth while investment when you will be able to keep your tubes at the rated voltage and thus prolong their life considerably.

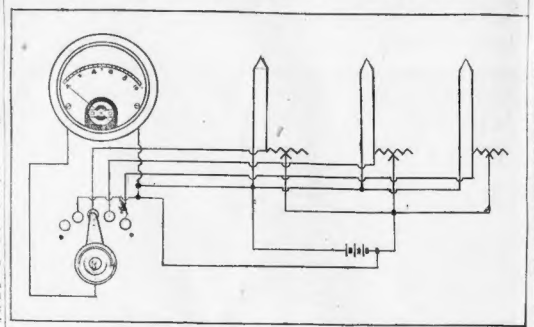
MOUNTING PARTS.

If you desire to construct the unit, you should first decide just where to mount the parts on the panel so that they will not interfere with the symmetry of the panel. After you have decided where to mount the voltmeter, carefully drill the hole and mount it.

Directly beneath the voltmeter mount the switch lever and the contact points and stops. If you are handy with tools it might be a good idea to engrave the panel where the different contacts are. For instance, the one on the extreme left is "off," the next one is "bat," the next "1st," next "2d" and the last one "3d."

The wiring of the system is not at all complicated and should present little or no difficulty at all. In fact the entire installation should not take more than an hour if one be handy with a drill and a soldering copper.

CHECKING UP ON RADIO TUBE VOLTAGE



VOLTMETER SWITCH FOR THREE TUBES

A voltmeter is a handy instrument on any radio set, but without a convenient switching arrangement it is a nuisance. Connected as above, the voltmeter is out of the circuit on the first tap. The voltage of the battery alone is shown on the second tap, while the voltage of the individual tubes is shown on the other three taps respectively.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions from stations all over the country should be good tonight. Stations in the extreme Southern section and those broadcasting on the Far West Coast should tune in well.

SYMPHONIC MUSIC FAVORED OVER JAZZ

Symphonic music ranks before jazz as the favorite with the majority of radio enthusiasts, William E. Harkness, in charge of station WEAF, today told the New York Electrical League. Jazz ranks second or third, he asserted. A study of what the public wants in broadcasting, made by the company in the last 18 months, revealed that 54 per cent of radio audiences desired interesting or instructive talks, he added.

The Listener

Have you heard Charley Kerr and his orchestra broadcast from his home announce it himself—radio ballroom through WFI, Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia. In addition to dance music, he usually has a couple of popular song artists performing with him.

Listeners who haven't heard W. Spencer Tuppman, pianist for Meyer Davis Le Paradis Band at WCAP play "Linger Awhile" are missing a treat. His imitation of cathedral chimes on the piano with the rest of the band playing very pianissimo is a finished performance.

Hawaiian music which had a sudden rise to popularity some years ago, with nearly as rapid a decline, will soon be back again if radio can be the means. A dozen times within the past few weeks, I have heard Hawaiian singers and players broadcasting all over the circuit, and their stuff comes in very well, too.

Several big Boston radio dealers have told me that more and more the questions about a new set include the one, "Will it cause interference with my neighbors?" Cynics who see no altruistic motives anywhere should take a bit of a thought on this.

The same dealers also say that women began this year to take an active interest in radio. Bright predictions for the future is based on this fact, as the influence of feminine interest in automobiles proved a tremendous lean to that industry. "Do women make good customers?" I asked one dealer.

"Collectively, yes," one dealer replied. "Individually, they talk too much."

I will not disclose this dealer's name. We men must stick together.

There was a young radio nut
Who liked all the broadcasting, but
The Dream Daddy stuff
Put him all in a huff,
And now his antenna is cut.

Not that the Dream Daddy isn't a fine song and a big release for the Broadcasters' Association, but there is a little too much of it? This goes for Dvorak's "Humoresque" and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," too.

Radio Queries

I have built a one-tube Super and it works very well. I expect to build another. The radio-frequency couplers now slant toward the tubes. Is this correct? Are coils obtainable wound with cotton wire? Would a sixty-ohm rheostat with 2 UV200 tube heat up? What kind of insulation is used between the primary and secondary when both are wound on the same tube? C. R. M.

Direction of slant of coils unimportant. I believe coils are obtainable with cotton wire, but you need not be afraid of silk. A sixty-ohm rheostat would not heat up. We do not advise winding coils on a single tube. It is better to use two tubes, as described in the Super booklet.

I have built a Super, but get poor results except with local stations. I have turned coils upside down, leaving the primary on the bottom, with connections reversed, and have had others check up. I know this set will work, as I tried it out with cheap coils and received great results, except for oscillations, but now, with set in good panel and coils on bakelite tubes, she is not so good. G. W.

See that the ends of the coil windings, especially the primary, are soldered directly to the bus bar. Have antenna connection on primary opposite filament lead on secondary, and ground connection on primary opposite grid connection on secondary in case of first coupler. This is shown on the hookup diagrams in the booklet, but the coils are inverted in these diagrams, for the sake of simplicity from the position shown in the photos on pages 18 and 20. If the relative connections as shown in the hookup diagrams are retained, the coils may have either end up.

I have built a Super, but can get only WNAC and WGI. If we turn off the r.f. tube we still hear the concert with about the same volume. Also, when we put on the detector tube, the rheostat has to be turned practically way over before the tube will light. J. S.

Sounds as if the A battery was low.

I built a four-tube Super six weeks ago. I am about two miles from Providence stations. These come in so loud that it is impossible to keep the phones on, even with only three tubes going. KDKA, WBZ and WGY also come in good and loud when WJAR is silent. When he is working he kills everything within sixty meters either way. I get other stations, about fifteen of them, including WNAC, which is considered quite a trick around here. If it were not for reading in your paper of fellows that get twenty-five or thirty stations in one evening I would believe I had a good set. F. C. C.

You should get better results. Two and three-quarters turns on the primary are not enough for the best results. Better try winding five and three-quarters. The squealing when you open up the last two rheostats suggests an improperly wired audio-frequency amplifier. Are your transformers at right angles and shielded?

CONDENSER AND RECTIFIER AID RECEPTION

By D. G. LITTLE,
Radio Engineer, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

The use of condensers in radio transmitting sets for reducing the commutator hum of the direct current generator, or the ripple voltage of the rectifier, has increased greatly in the last two years. This is largely because amateurs and the listening public in general are becoming more critical about the quality of transmission and demand that the generator noise and hum be reduced to a minimum.

The use of rectifiers for supplying plate voltage has also greatly increased, because the amateur has found that a filter consisting of inductance and capacitance that will quiet a noisy generator will produce even better results when connected to a rectifier.

Filter condensers for use on direct current voltages up to 2,000 volts are relatively simple and inexpensive. For voltages of 2,000 to 5,000, however, the problem is more serious, requiring that low losses and extremely high insulation resistance be maintained in the condenser if it is to give satisfactory service.

The Westinghouse company has developed such a condenser for direct current application which is built in units with capacities of one to three microfarads and voltage of 3,500 and 4,500. For higher voltages these units are connected in series and provided with suitable equalizing resistances. The insulation resistance per unit average 1,000 meghons and the efficiency is 99.8 per cent. or over.

At the present time several hundred of these condensers are giving very satisfactory service. Forty-eight of the three microfarad 3,500 volt units are employed at each of the Westinghouse broadcasting stations, KDKA, KFKX and WBZ, while KYW uses ten of the same size units.

'PASSING SHOW' GOES ON AT MIDNIGHT

Stars from "The Passing Show," now playing at the Shubert, will put on an hour of entertainment from WNAC tomorrow night at midnight. Those who will entertain are George Jessel, George Hassell, the Trade Twins, Lew Cooper, Perry Askam, Jan Moore and Vera Ross. Plenty of fun, including bits from the show as well as extemporaneous comedy, is promised.

RADIO FANS HEAR HARDING SERVICE

New England radio fans who tuned in on the Harding memorial service had perfect conditions to favor them for a full hour and a half. Direct from the chamber of the House of Representatives in Washington the broadcast came through, clear and distinct, without code interference, static or fading.

"DREAM DADDY" WILL BE HERE SATURDAY

The "Dream Daddy" of Station WDAR in Philadelphia, who is spending his "vacation" in a tour of broadcasting stations, comes next Saturday to WNAC. At 6 p. m. he will broadcast a special children's half-hour of music and stories. This will include the singing of "Dream Daddy."

"BIG BEN'S" TOLLS TO COME BY RADIO

The melodious notes of Big Ben, the famous London clock, may yet be heard in this country. A microphone is to be installed in the clock tower by the British Broadcasting Company and the chimes will be broadcast by 2LO each evening at 7 p. m., London time, at the conclusion of the broadcasting program.

If We All Understood Each Other—

This World Would Be Much Improved

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Women, from the beginning of time and the beginning of man's life, have been waitresses.

The female savage waited on her husband.

The mother waits for the son to be born, then waits while the little gasping thing is washed off, to give him his first food.

Then waits to put him to bed and get him up and send him to school.

Patient waiting is woman's lot—waiting, as a stenographer, for the dictation of the dull, humming and hawing employer; waiting for the vote, waiting for some man to propose; then waiting for him to come home at night, and perhaps waiting for a jury to give her a divorce.

It is a lot of dull waiting, and we say earnestly for women, what Lord Clive said of himself, "We are astonished at her moderation."

Of all the world's waitresses, from Penelope waiting for Ulysses to come home and brag, Joan of Arc waiting for the fire to start, Dido waiting and ranting up and down the beach, the saddest lot, we should say, is that of the lady in the restaurant "waiting on the table," as our euphemism has it.

"Waiting on the table" would not be so bad. It is waiting on the human things that sit around the table that takes so much patience and good nature.

How do the young women do it? we ask a thousand times, as we see them regally erect, in high heels, imitation caps, stiff white dresses, everlastingly waiting on the man who is everlastingly in a hurry, but always has plenty of time to look slowly through the bill of fare and decide what shall go into his lordship's stomach.

On behalf of the waitresses, please take for your motto Milton's famous line, "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Remember that your order is one of a hundred or more each day, and you can't expect a lady to get excited 100 times daily.

If you are really in a hurry, ask for what can be got in a hurry. If a mistake is made, count ten or a thousand, then ask yourself whether YOU ever made a mistake—and then do not say what you were going to say. For it only makes the waitress think you are a worm.

Smile kindly at the waitress, as though you were saying in your heart, "Too bad a lovely thing like you should have to wait upon such as I."

Read quickly, order distinctly, smile gratefully, save your stomach the burden of digesting some one unnecessary thing and leave the price of it for the young lady.

For "tips" are to the machinery of life what ball-bearings are to other machinery. Do not imagine you can dispense with them and avoid friction.

It is bad enough for the young woman, who ought to be talking to some perfectly good soldier, to have to stay indoors and wait on you.

Josephus Daniels

He Recognized This Nation's Power

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Strange how men in charge of government property, some of them eminently respectable, and not at all bribe-takers or otherwise criminal, fail to recognize the power of the United States government.

They always tell you that private individuals can do it better—no matter what it is.

Josephus Daniels, who was Secretary of the Navy during the war, took a different view of it. When he had charge of the naval oil reserves they came to him and said, "You had better lease those oil lands to private individuals. Private owners will sink their wells right near your line and draw all the government oil out, while you are holding on to it."

That didn't frighten Daniels. His reply was "Let them go ahead and drill their wells. For every well THEY drill on the government line, THE GOVERNMENT WILL DRILL TWO ON THEIR LINE and take out all their oil. The government is not a baby or bankrupt."

It would be a good thing if there were more men in office who realize that the government can spend a million dollars for every dollar any individual can spend, and the government has unlimited power besides, including the one great thing that can undo all rascality, the right of Eminent Domain.

The private individual that wants something belonging to the government has to arrange with some official to steal it, on a bribery basis. But when the government sees anything it wants it simply takes it, paying what it considers a fair price.

Wise Royalty Bends

That's Better Than Breaking

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

British royalty reminds you of the little roseau in La Fontaine's fable, Le Chene et le roseau, the tempest blew, and the great oak that tried to withstand its power was uprooted.

The dainty little plant beside it, bending to the ground, survived the storm, saying to the prostrate oak, "I bend, so that I don't break."

King George and his Queen Mary of England have officially modified court dress regulations in honor of the labor government. The labor men and their wives may come to court without knee breeches for the men or gowns trailing six feet on the floor for the women. Bending, but not breaking, is the specialty of wise British monarchs.

Poor Louis XVI. of France tried it, sticking the tricolor in his hat, but it was too late then. He lost the head that wore the hat.

Never Again!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"I MIGHT as well be a stick for all he notices me," moans Edith. "We've only been married six months and he has already forgotten every loving habit he had when we were engaged. He gobbles his breakfast behind a newspaper every morning and just grunts when I speak to him. And at night he doesn't want to go out anywhere or have anyone in. I try to talk to him and he only yawns."

"Doesn't he even want to talk about his business?"

"Oh, of course, when we were first married he wanted to talk about that all the time. Why, when we were engaged I was bored to tears hearing about his old sales and contracts, but I kept it to myself. But after we were married I just told him I was tired to death hearing about it. I don't think it shows real respect for a woman when a man insists on talking shop all the time, do you? So, of course, he stopped. And now, most of the evenings, I can't get a word out of him."

The other day a famous woman writer visited our country. In the interview which she granted she commented upon two things—the lack of interest shown by American husbands in their wives, although they spent so much money on those wives, and the lack of interest shown by the American wives in their husbands' work. "What do American wives do?" she asked in amazement.

Do you recognize the speech? It's fairly common, isn't it? Visiting foreigners comment on the very fact of which Edith complains—the indifference of American husbands to their wives. But they also comment upon a fact which Edith does not emphasize—the indifference of American wives to their husbands' work. Is there any connection between the two?

Edith has been trained to regard marriage as a romantic adventure, a continuation of the courting episode. Some day Prince Charming will come and love and woo her for her beauty. Then, having married him, her one concern is to stay beautiful so that the wooing will continue. Whether Edith is a ribbon clerk or a heiress, the expectation is the same. A wife is desired as an object of art. As long as she remains an object of art she continues to be desired.

But Edward, while appreciating to the full Edith's rosy lips and marcelled curls, has other ideas of married life. His wife is to be that Understanding Soul and Inspiring Partner who will help him in the Big Game. As she listens brightly to his courting confidences he is sure he has found the Ideal Mate. He babbles happily of sales and estimates, contracts and specifications, lured by the sympathetic glow within her eye. Where is that cynical soul who said that woman had no interest in the more serious things of life? Ah-ha, he'd just like to have him meet Edith!

So they are married. And you have Edith's own version of what happens. Not only is she bored, but she is actually affronted by his shop talk. Of course Edward must earn money, but why talk about it? Why not forget it when the day is over and have a party? She sees no adventure in work—merely a tiresome necessity. And he lays her indifference to stupidity or lack of love. To him she is no longer a girl to be courted. She is a woman who should be sharing his interests and helping to carry his burden. Yet all she thinks of is a new dress or a manicure or a bit of neighborhood gossip. She's not interested in his job, she cares nothing about politics, she doesn't even read the newspaper save to scan the divorce news. "What's the use of a wife, anyway?" snorts Ed.

Well, what's your answer to his question?

Asks Aid for Twins

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to ask you for some clothing for myself and three children, twins, two and a half years old, and baby, one and a half years old. My husband has been out of work a long time. He had an operation last Winter. I had two pairs of twins, one year after the other. Last September I had an operation myself. The children had scarlet fever for two months and I lost one of the youngest set of twins. Three weeks after my husband lost his job. The children need dresses and coats and I have nothing to put on my back. I would be thankful with anything with my size, 38. I can make over. The Red Cross gave the children their Winter underwear and gives them their milk. They have been very good to me. MRS. V. K.

Home for Someone

Editor Helping Hand:

Can you help me through your Helping Hand to find a middle-aged woman who is looking for a good home. One who hasn't a home if you have one. I live in the country and would like some one for company and one I can leave with the children while I go to town to do my errands. I can give a good home to a woman for a little light work in return. MRS. H. S. F.

Widow Seeks Aid

Editor Helping Hand:

Would you please try and help me with some clothes for my children? I am a widow and work, but can only earn enough to buy food and fuel, and there is not any left to buy clothes. The boy is fourteen and takes size 3 shoes, and the little girl is nine and wears a 10½ or 11 shoe. If I could get some coats for them or anything I could make over I would be very happy. I wear size 36 or 38 and 5½ shoe, but if I could get something for the children I would not mind myself so much, as they have to go quite a long way to school mornings. D. F.

Offers Gas Stove

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few things that I would like to give to some mother for her little children, that will fit children from the age of three months up to two years. The things are not new, but if anyone can use them it is better than my putting them in the rag bag. I also have a gas stove that I would like to give to some

DR. FRANK CRANE ON BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG READER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I AM often asked by young people what books I would recommend for them.

The question is a difficult one to answer for almost everything depends upon the personal equation.

No one ought to prescribe medicine for a mind until he has at first diagnosed the case.

There is a rule, however, that is rather a safe generality. This is that suggested by Emerson; not to read any book that is not twenty years old.

Of course this rule is far from being hard and fast. Myriads of utterly useless books were printed over twenty years ago and there are many books of today that are of great value.

But just the same if I were a young man I would not try to "keep up" with modern literature.

In the first place the mass of books produced daily is appalling. No one can possibly be entirely up-to-date in modern literature unless he reads like a streak of lightning twenty-five hours a day and three hundred and sixty-six days in the year.

Even then the next person he meets will be likely to ask him, "Have you read So-and-So?" and he will discover that he has missed it.

If I were a young man I think I would stop all miscellaneous reading at least for a month or a year and read instead some of the books that have stood the test of time.

If I were, say, between seventeen and twenty-seven I would make up a list of the old standard works, concentrate on them for a period of time and appraise the results for myself.

For instance I would read Locke, "On the Human Understanding." It is not so forbidding as it sounds. It is written in a clear, direct, and simple style and is plain, solid, wholesome mental food.

I would read Franklin's autobiography.

I would read Bacon's Essays, especially the edition containing Whately's annotations. I do not believe that any human mind has uncovered such a mine of wisdom and shrewd common sense as these Essays contain.

I would read Emerson, Thoreau and Hawthorne.

I would read good translations of Goethe, and read over and over again the plays of Shakespeare.

I would read Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," and keep on reading it until my mind caught step with the imperial stride of the author's language.

I would read the King James translation of the English Bible and familiarize myself with its phraseology, for nothing in the English language has ever excelled it.

I would read the adventures of Marco Polo, and of Hakluyt.

And if you merely want diversion, are there any more interesting novels being printed today than those written for another age by Charles Dickens and Victor Hugo?

This is by no means a complete list, but simply an indication of the value of the old-time tried books.

To meet a mind that reads only current stuff is like visiting a house full of brand new painted furniture. Properly to furnish one's mind we need the antique as well as the novel.

Besides this, we save ourselves from a good deal of meless and fatuous enthusiasms for new ideas and schemes when we discover, in these old books, that they were expounded long ago.

Merely as a matter of taste one's mental landscape should have its old cathedrals and monuments as well as its modern jerry-built houses.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON EASY CHEMISTRY

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

"Please tell the very simplest way to separate the two gases, hydrogen and oxygen, that go to constitute water. Are they the same in salt water? What are the speeds of their molecules?—F. B., Peoria, Ill."

YOU should be very careful in all chemical experiments, for some of them are dangerous, and require the supervision and guidance of a teacher. However, you may safely undertake the analysis, or decomposition, of water, provided that you do not recklessly experiment with the gases into which you turn the water by trying to set them on fire.

Oxygen burns with extreme readiness, and a mixture of hydrogen and oxygen in certain proportions explodes if a flame is applied to it, the two gases reuniting during the explosion, to form water again. Hydrogen, even when burned in air, forms a little water by uniting with the atmospheric oxygen.

Perhaps the simplest way to separate oxygen and hydrogen from their combination in the form of water is to fill a glass "test tube"—which is a longish cylinder half an inch to an inch in diameter, and open only at one end—with water, and then put it open end down in a dish of water. In this operation you must keep the end of the tube closed until it is under the water in the dish. This is to prevent the entry of air, which would drive the water down out of the tube.

Under the end of the tube at the bottom of the dish have a piece of calcium, a substance which has a strong affinity for oxygen. The calcium will form a chemical compound called calcium oxide with the oxygen that it abstracts from the water, while the hydrogen that was combined with the oxygen thus taken away, finding itself left materless (the remaining water being already provided with all the hydrogen it needs), rises, by virtue of its extreme lightness, through the water in the tube, and on collecting at the top of the tube, makes room for itself there by forcing the column of water downward.

By proper precautions you may remove this hydrogen from the tube, always remembering that hydrogen is a very light gas, so that if you want to pass it from receptacle to another you must pour it upward, not downward. You can lift the tube straight up out of the dish, allowing the water to run out, but the hydrogen will stay in the top of the tube.

In this experiment, however, you have obtained only one of the two gases that make water. The oxygen that was partner for the hydrogen that you separated has now united with the calcium to form oxide.

In this experiment, however, you have obtained only one of the two gases that make water. The oxygen that was partner for the hydrogen that you separated has now united with the calcium to form oxide.

To get both of the gases you may decompose the water with an electric current. This can be performed because hydrogen and oxygen have opposite electrical qualities. Hydrogen is electrically positive, and oxygen electrically negative.

If, then, you dip two water-filled test-tubes side by side into the dish of water, and insert into the lower part of one of them the terminal electrode from the positive end of a small Bunsen or Grove battery, and into the other the electrode connected with the negative end of the batery, the electric current will decompose the water, collecting the oxygen at the negative electrode, and the hydrogen at the positive, and each gas will rise through the water in the tube above it, and collect at the top.

The presence of salt in water does not change the relative proportions of oxygen and hydrogen.
